
Midnight Transition Not The Same For Everyone

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The end of an internationally tense 1962 and the start of an uncertain 1963 arrive tonight for countless millions around the troubled world.

For many, the midnight transition from the old to the new will bring joyful reflections. For others, it will spark sad recollections.

Millions will flock to churches to raise their voices in song and prayer—thanking God for the blessings of the old year and asking His guidance through the year to come.

Others will sing out the old and shout in the new at entertainment spots ranging from cozy corner taverns and tiny dance halls to big city auditoriums and night clubs.

To get to their parties, some will trudge through inches of snow. Others will walk along palm-lined boulevards under balmy summer-like skies.

Many will be oblivious to the magic instant. They are the very sick, the very young, the very tired.

The moment will go virtually unnoticed by those assigned to the task of keeping the vital services of a complex society rolling.

Some will die around the stroke of twelve. Others will be spanked into life.

Particular emphasis has been put on highway safety with hotels, coffee shops, expensive restaurants and churches offering free lodging, coffee and a moment of rest for those whose celebrating might leave them incapable of safe driving.

The Pennsylvania and New Jersey turnpike commissions will offer free hot coffee to any person traveling the super highways.

The Travelers Hotel near La Guardia Airport in New York has offered free overnight lodging to any celebrant who feels the need of it.

Members of the Adaman group will usher in the New Year by an assault on the 14,110-foot Pike's Peak in Colorado. From the summit, the group hopes to set off a fireworks display at midnight.

FROSTED FIREMEN

How Will Council Appoint Police Chief?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

How should the City of San Rafael go about appointing a police chief if its citizens vote against keeping the position elective?

The question is due for discussion at the Jan. 7 city council meeting, and four of the five council members have said they believe some sort of examination should be required for the job.

On the Jan. 22 special election ballot will be proposals to remove the police chief and city attorney from their present elective status and make them appointive.

As they will appear on the ballot, the proposals call simply for transferring the two positions from Article 6, Section 1, of the city charter to Article 6, Section 11.

Section 1 lists the elective officers. Section 11 lists officers appointed by the city council to four-year terms. These are city engineer, superintendent of streets, health officer, fire chief, and poundmaster. "All such appointive officers may be removed at any time by a unanimous vote of the council," the charter section decrees. Nothing is said about qualifications except that the health officer must be a licensed physician.

The city's civil service ordinance specifically exempts the positions listed in Article 6, Section 11, from its provisions. For that matter, the civil service ordinance does not require an examination for appointment, although it provides examinations may be given.

All five city council members have said that, in putting before the voters a proposal to make the police chief appointive, they are following a recommendation of Chief Charles E. Simpson of Monterey police after his intensive study of San Rafael police operations last spring.

In his report to the council, Simpson declared:

"I could not find an authority on police matters who believed it was correct procedure to elect a chief of police. All agree that open competitive examination properly conducted is the best known technique for insuring administrative competence."

He recomended appointing a citizen committee to frame a charter revision calling for selection of the police chief by open competitive examination. The council, however, decided to act on its own initiative in placing the matter on the ballot.

"A system for selection of the police chief should be adopted so that everyone in and out of the city family will know what the procedure will be prior to the Jan. 22 elec-

Seven Injured As Four Autos Go Off Roads

In none of the accidents was a second vehicle known to be involved.

A San Anselmo man suffered 12 broken ribs when his small sports car convertible crashed down an embankment and overturned Saturday on Ridgecrest Boulevard in Mount Tamalpais State Park.

George E. Haigh III, 25, of 17 Arroyo Avenue, San Anselmo, was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with a broken right shoulder blade and injured kidney in addition to the broken ribs.

His passenger, Larry Watson, 30, of Martinez, suffered severe back injuries and cuts on his hips and left hand. He was transferred to Highland Hospital in Oakland after emergency treatment at Marin General Hospital.

Both men were crushed under Haigh's MG car after it skidded 70 feet on the pavement and rolled 40 feet down an embankment off Ridgecrest Boulevard near the Panoramic Highway junction at the state park Mountain Theater, the California Highway Patrol said.

Haigh told the patrol he hit his brakes when he thought he saw ice on the road just before rounding a sharp curve. The accident happened shortly after 3 p.m.

Clifford Stanley Ray, 44, of 608 C Street, San Rafael, suffered four broken ribs and cuts on his forehead when his sedan careened off Highway 1 near Point Reyes Station, travelled 15 feet through a pasture, and landed upside down on the pavement again at noon yesterday.

The highway patrol said several witnesses reported seeing Ray's car speeding and moving recklessly along the highway prior to the accident. Ray was treated at Marin General Hospital and transferred to San Rafael General Hospital, where he was in good condition today.

Patrolmen Extras On Tonight

A holiday was observed today by the office staff of the California Highway Patrol's San Rafael office, but extra patrolmen were to be on highway duty from 3 p.m. to about 4 a.m. tomorrow.

This paradox characterized much of Marin County today in its attitude toward a "Population Day Holiday" ordained by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Whether the possibility that California contains more people than any other state was something to celebrate was so ill-defined that one Marin County city—Novato—had taken the trouble to avoid the holiday by emergency ordinance; three other cities rested on their local list of holidays and ignored this special one, and others were pretty wishy-washy over the whole thing.

Law enforcement officers were agreed that New Year's Eve poses special problems and the highway patrol put on more extra men than is customary for weekends.

All the Novato police force was to work extra hours, from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. tomorrow, with the exception of two on day shift tomorrow, according to Police Chief Roy McLaren.

This duty was to include a traffic check at some place not made public. It is usual to have a check in some part of Marin County at the New Year season.

A full crew was to be on duty from the sheriff's office but no check points or road blocks were contemplated.

Through today, county offices were open as last Monday but by decision of the supervisors only skeleton staffs were maintained.

U.N. Claims Control In Katanga Fighting

CONGRESS DRIVE GETS OFF GROUND

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Candidates for First District congressman were poised and ready today to jump into what will undoubtedly be the most hectic, concentrated political campaign ever seen in Marin and the other five counties of the district.

When the last horn is blown and the last Happy New Year shouted tomorrow, three men will jump into a three-week race which will culminate in the special election Jan. 22.

Not that the candidates are not already at work.

Republican Don Clausen of Crescent City spoke at a meeting in San Rafael Saturday, then raced up to Sonoma County and over to Napa County for continuing meetings.

Democrat William Grader of Fort Bragg traveled from home gathering to home gathering in the Fairfax and Novato areas over the weekend and plans a concentrated group of meetings in Novato Thursday.

Democrat John C. Stuart of Auburn and Novato has been wending his solo way through the southern part of the district, contacting people individually as he went.

But Wednesday, with the holidays behind them, they all will turn loose every method they can develop to attract the voters' attention.

Clausen made a formal address at his meeting in San Rafael. Republican leaders from four of the six counties attended including all three of the men formerly mentioned as possible Republican opponents for him, Assemblymen William T. Bagley and John Busterud and Fred Dupuis, twice a candidate for the First District seat.

Others among the 30 present were State Central Republican Committee Chairman Caspar Weinberger, Sen. John F. McCarthy, former Assemblyman Richard H. McCollister and Southern Marin Supervisor Peter Behr.

Clausen told this group that a "big lie" campaign had been launched against him, particularly in Sonoma County, regarding his stand on social security. He does not oppose it, he pointed out, because for years as an insurance man he has helped set up retirement programs for his clients with social security as the base ingredient.

"I am not about to reverse my position at this time," Clausen declared. "Rather, it would be my intended purpose to recommend programs to strengthen the retirement opportunities for all senior citizens."

He said the untrue charges may be based on a "twisted" interpretation of his position on medical care for the aged. He said that because he believes a better medical plan can be worked out outside of social security, he does "not think a mandatory increase in social security taxes is called for at this time."

Gerald Misner, chairman of the Marin GOP central committee, presided at the luncheon meeting in Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael. Practically all of those present spoke, making suggestions for the campaign and pledging support to Clausen.

Orders Planes To Quit

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe's troops battled U.N. Congo command units in north Katanga today, challenging a U.N. claim of lightning victory in this third military campaign against the secessionist province.

The United Nations claimed full control of the area of Elisabethville, the capital, in the south. But incidents of pillage and terror promoted unrest. The U.N. command ordered looters shot on sight.

Consolidating gains, the United Nations ordered Katanga pilots to surrender by noon tomorrow and give up all their planes which had survived U.N. strafing attacks.

TSHOMBE REPORT

Tshombe himself, who has vowed to fight to the end against forced reunification of the Congo, was reported to have returned to Katanga.

He took off in a Rhodesian air force transport from Salisbury for an unannounced destination after an overnight visit to the capital of the Central African Federation.

Officials in the Rhodesian border town of Ndola said Tshombe flew to Kolwazi, 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville. Katangans at Ndola expressed belief he planned to reofrm his forces in Wolwezi and organize his armed forces to carry on the fight. They believed Cabinet members accompanied him.

CENTER OF FIGHTING

The U.N. command in Leopoldville said fighting centered on the outskirts of Kamina, a mining town 260 miles northwest of Elisabethville, which the United Nations said yesterday had been captured by Ghanian U.N. troops.

The U.N. command said today a Swedish battalion and a Ghanaian company were under fire.

Messages reaching Leopoldville this morning reported three Katanga companies were still in the town Sunday night.

However, the Ghanaians were reported by the United Nations to have captured a road and rail junction about 15 miles from Kamina.

1962 Wrings Out East, Europe With Icy Storms

Combined AP & UPI

Winter unleashed its fury on the Eastern section of the nation in the last hours of the year.

Below-zero temperatures were reported today in many spots.

High velocity winds tore down power lines, may have swept a youth off a ferryboat to apparent death, and overturned a motorboat whose operator drowned.

The powerful gusts also ripped off a movie house roof, toppled a huge construction crane and literally blew a river from its bed, stranding numerous boats.

The wintry blast also brought fresh accumulations of snow in some places.

Bangor, Me., had at least 21 inches of new snow on top of the 15 inches previously fallen. Howling winds piled up drifts as high as 20 feet. The state's third largest city, population 50,000, was "just about paralyzed," according to one newsman.

The Bangor Daily News failed to publish its morning paper today, for the first time since 1899.

The Maine blizzard, termed the worst in a decade, also forced closing of Bangor movie houses for the first time in memory and stranded some 2,000 persons in buses and cars throughout the state.

Maine's Gov. John H. Reed appealed to citizens to take in the refugees.

The 4,500 persons in Lincoln, Me., 40 miles north of Bangor, were reported isolated with no power and all roads blocked.

Maryland recorded three deaths in sledding accidents.

Six Boy Scouts were trapped several hours in a car stuck in a snowdrift in Washington County, Pa., before highway crews freed them.

The New York Central and New Haven railroads said the severe cold knocked out signal systems at many points along their main lines in the Northeast. Trains were delayed up to three hours.

New York City experienced 4-degree temperatures today, equalling the year's lowest reading.

In Europe, snowstorms, ice and bitter cold paralyzed transportation, isolating villages and caused more than 600 deaths from Britain to Siberia.

As the bitter winter storms went into the second week, an unofficial count showed at least 620 persons had died in storm-connected accidents ranging from traffic accidents to freezing and asphyxiation.

France led the casualty list with 241 deaths.

Britain, with 150 dead, dug out of its worst blizzard in 15 years amid forecasts of a slow thaw containing flood threats for southern England. Rail, air and road traffic crawled out of dirfts of up ot 20 feet into restricted service except in Scotland, where the situation was worsening due to fresh snow. Daytime temperatures remained just above freezing, then dipped below at dusk.

Army helicopters dropped supplies to isolated villages. At Evershot in Dorset 71 persons have been trapped in a cafe for two days. At Torquay a sudden gale whipped 40-foot waves across the thawing sea front.

In Germany, at least 83 persons have died on and off the highways. Snow blanked most of the country, bringing road traffic to a near standstill.

In West Berlin police arrested a 21-year-old man who broke inot a clothing store as he put on his third stolen sweater. The temperature there was 23 degrees.

In the Netherlands, 41 persons were reported dead as workmen cleared roadways in freezing temperatures.

In Belgium there was a slow thaw as the mercury rose slightly. At least 14 were counted dead.

Rising temperatures in Switzerland created new avalanche dangers. Some 300 cars were blocked on a road leading to St. Gotthard Pass. The death toll stood at 19.

Hundreds of water pipes in Vienna were completely frozen. Nine persons died from coal gas poisoning in tightly sealed rooms, forcing the Austrian radio to broadcast hourly warnings against the danger.

The editorial added that the Red Chinese "still strongly oppose, and will strongly oppose in the future . . . the sacrifice of another country's sovereignty as a means of reaching a compromise with imperialism."

Fidel Asks Return Of Air Travel

HAVANA (AP)—A cool reception greeted today the Castro government's offer to let more Cubans go to the United States if Pan American Airways resumed flights between Havana and Miami.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the line had little desire to resume normal service to Cuba. He said the company had lost heavily on its flights to Cuba in recent years because of restrictions and limited travel to the island.

The State Department banned private and commercial flights to Cuba during the Cuban crisis. The ban is still on although it was lifted temporarily when the Cuban invasion prisoners were ransomed and flown out.

MAINTAINS POLICY

"The revolutionary government," said a communique from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's office, "will maintain its policy to authorize the departure from the country for all those desiring to leave as soon as the Pan American Airways resumes its flights to Cuba which it suspended by a decision of North American authorities.

Official sources denied reports that Castro had agreed to allow more relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders to follow the prisoners to the United States. James B. Donovan, the New York attorney who negotiated the release of the prisoners and nearly 1,000 of their relatives, said Saturday in Lake Placid, N.Y., that Castro had agreed to let an additional 2,500 relatives go to the United States.

Donovan said as each installment of the 53 million dollars worth of ransom food and drugs for the prisoners aws delivered, another group of relatives would be released.

RIDICULES KENNEDY

The Cuban communique also denied a report by Donovan that Castro might go to the United Nations to negotiate the release of 21 Americans imprisoned in Cuba.

Havana radio ridiculed President John F. Kennedy's appearance in Miami Saturday before the Bay of Pigs prisoners.

"Kennedy made a real effort to forget his Yankee aristocratic prejudices when he called brothers these contemptible Latin Americans born in Cuba," the broadcast said.

"One of the most ridiculous aspects of the show staged by Kennedy and his mercenaries was the reference to the fake brigade flag which Kennedy promised to return some day to what he called a free Havana."

Fair Condition After Pill Dosage

Marin General Hospital attendants today reported improvement in the condition of Mrs. Florene K. Pearlman, 48, of 548 Taregon Drive, Terra Linda, who took an unknown number of seconal pills Friday night.

Mrs. Pearlman was in fair condition today, and responding to treatment, attendants said.

State Agency Heads Asked Plans For Saving Money

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Hale Champion, state director of finance, called upon state department and agency heads today to give him outlines of the plans they have in mind to save to total of five million dollars during the next six months.

Champion set a Jan. 15 deadline for submission of savings programs, ordered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown and necessitated by the fact state revenues will be 40 million dollars less this fiscal year than had been expected earlier.

Champion suggested that all agency and department heads take the following actions to make the savings:

1. Hold vacant all positions not filled until the end of the fiscal year or not make upward reclassifications of positions. These actions would be except where direct, basic services to individuals are concerned.

2. Reduce travel, telephone and other controllable expenses.

3. Deferment of equipment purchases not already underway or immediately required to maintain levels of service.

Rockefeller Waiting, Watching

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has adopted a hare-and-tortoise strategy in his quest for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, reports reaching here indicated today.

The idea appears to be that Rockefeller will hang back, letting such other GOP stars as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania put on whatever burst of political speed they desire.

Then in the stretch Rockefeller, with that massive New York delegation propelling him, will romp to certain nomination or so his backers feel sure.

In line with this, Rockefeller is keeping comparatively quiet; has few speaking engagements outside New York, and is turning down a number of bids.

Officially, of course, Rockefeller has not entered the presidential competition, nor has Goldwater or Romney or Scranton.

For the present, Rockefeller strategists are passing the word that he thinks the GOP should remain flexible, giving full exposure to all its likely presidential possibilities and then pick the best man, a man with a positive approach.

"The governor," one said, "doesn't want to get in the position of assuming the mantle of the party nominee, or even the stance of a candidate for the nomination at this time."

Asked whether Rockefeller has shown any reluctance to come to grips with president John F. Kennedy since the latter's rocking chair television interview — an event which struck even some Republican leaders as a political tour de force—the governor's backers said no.

"He just does not want to assume the role of chief Republican antagonist to the president at this juncture," one said. "This is in line with his policy of not trying to put on the mantle of the nominee."

CLEVER PRESCRIPTION FOR PHARMACY THEFT

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Pharmacist John Swire heard an authoritative voice when he answered the telephone at his drug store:

"This is an agent of the FBI. We have information that your store is going to be held up in a few minutes. We have the place under surveillance and we will arrest the man as soon as he comes out. Co-operate with him in every way so we can get evidence."

A shabbily dressed man walked in a few minutes later and announced that the was staging a holdup.

He took $50 and some narcotics and calmly walked out.

Swire is still waiting for the FBI.

Rail Consolidation Is Approved By ICC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway to purchase stock control of the financially ailing Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

In announcing its decision, the ICC denied petitions seeking to have the case consolidated with two other major railroad proposals pending before the commission.

The government, through the Justice Department, had joined with the Delaware and Hudson Railroad and the Railway Labor Executives Assn. in the petitions objecting to separate consideration of the C&O-B&O case.

They wanted it considered at the same time as proposed mergers of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, and the Norfolk and Western and Nickel Plate.

The three railroad marriages would form three relatively balanced giant systems in the east, their officials said. Further hearings will be held on the Penn-Central case and an ICC examiner's report is expected in the near future on the proposed N&W expansion.

1962 Wrings Out East, Europe With Icy Storms

Combined AP & UPI

Winter unleashed its fury on the Eastern section of the nation in the last hours of the year.

Below-zero temperatures were reported today in many spots.

High velocity winds tore down power lines, may have swept a youth off a ferryboat to apparent death, and overturned a motorboat whose operator drowned.

The powerful gusts also ripped off a movie house roof, toppled a huge construction crane and literally blew a river from its bed, stranding numerous boats.

The wintry blast also brought fresh accumulations of snow in some places.

Bangor, Me., had at least 21 inches of new snow on top of the 15 inches previously fallen. Howling winds piled up drifts as high as 20 feet. The state's third largest city, population 50,000, was "just about paralyzed," according to one newsman.

The Bangor Daily News failed to publish its morning paper today, for the first time since 1899.

The Maine blizzard, termed the worst in a decade, also forced closing of Bangor movie houses for the first time in memory and stranded some 2,000 persons in buses and cars throughout the state.

Maine's Gov. John H. Reed appealed to citizens to take in the refugees.

The 4,500 persons in Lincoln, Me., 40 miles north of Bangor, were reported isolated with no power and all roads blocked.

Maryland recorded three deaths in sledding accidents.

Six Boy Scouts were trapped several hours in a car stuck in a snowdrift in Washington County, Pa., before highway crews freed them.

The New York Central and New Haven railroads said the severe cold knocked out signal systems at many points along their main lines in the Northeast. Trains were delayed up to three hours.

New York City experienced 4-degree temperatures today, equalling the year's lowest reading.

In Europe, snowstorms, ice and bitter cold paralyzed transportation, isolating villages and caused more than 600 deaths from Britain to Siberia.

As the bitter winter storms went into the second week, an unofficial count showed at least 620 persons had died in storm-connected accidents ranging from traffic accidents to freezing and asphyxiation.

France led the casualty list with 241 deaths.

Britain, with 150 dead, dug out of its worst blizzard in 15 years amid forecasts of a slow thaw containing flood threats for southern England. Rail, air and road traffic crawled out of dirfts of up ot 20 feet into restricted service except in Scotland, where the situation was worsening due to fresh snow. Daytime temperatures remained just above freezing, then dipped below at dusk.

Army helicopters dropped supplies to isolated villages. At Evershot in Dorset 71 persons have been trapped in a cafe for two days. At Torquay a sudden gale whipped 40-foot waves across the thawing sea front.

In Germany, at least 83 persons have died on and off the highways. Snow blanked most of the country, bringing road traffic to a near standstill.

In West Berlin police arrested a 21-year-old man who broke inot a clothing store as he put on his third stolen sweater. The temperature there was 23 degrees.

In the Netherlands, 41 persons were reported dead as workmen cleared roadways in freezing temperatures.

In Belgium there was a slow thaw as the mercury rose slightly. At least 14 were counted dead.

Rising temperatures in Switzerland created new avalanche dangers. Some 300 cars were blocked on a road leading to St. Gotthard Pass. The death toll stood at 19.

Hundreds of water pipes in Vienna were completely frozen. Nine persons died from coal gas poisoning in tightly sealed rooms, forcing the Austrian radio to broadcast hourly warnings against the danger.

Eagle Attacks Pair In Volkswagen

MELROSE, N.M. (UPI)—An eagle swooped down on a Volkswagen near here Saturday and attacked two rabbit hunters inside.

Jim McNeil, 23, of Clovis, N.M., and Kent Flemins, 23, of Mountain Air, N.M., said the eagle clawed them so badly they had to go to a doctor.

McNeil said he and Flemins were driving into the rabbit country south of here when the eagle rose from the ground near the highway and flew directly at the small car.

The car was traveling about 45 miles per hour and the eagle shattered the windshield and set upon the two men, McNeil said.

He said he was able to stop the car and both men jumped out and began shooting at the bird.

It had a wingspan of six feet, and they said it took several shots from .22-caliber rifles to kill it.

Ensemble Concert Is Rare

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Bach to Mozart Chamber Players performed for a sold-out house of enthusiastic music lovers Friday night in the opening concert of the third annual Candlelight Series.

This was no surprise, since Brown's Hall in Mill Valley has always been filled to capacity for all previous concerts — thanks partly to the reputation of the musicians and partly to the diligence of the sponsoring Homestead Valley Improvement Club.

PERILOUS VENTURE

The nature of the ensemble for this concert—a wind octet—was both a reason for its exceptional interest and a somewhat perilous venture. One rarely gets to hear a full program presented by wind instruments, but they are so notoriously difficult to play over long periods that the challenge is great.

On the whole the performance of the octet was excellent, but the prolonged effort may have been responsible for some difficulty with perfect purity of tone, noted particularly in the French horns. At the end of the first movement of the Octet in E flat by Beetheven—second of the three works played—this was most noticeable.

Yet, by far the most successful number was the final and featured work, a Suite for Wind Instruments from Mozart's "Abuction from the Seraglio." Not only was the music itself delightful, but it was played with more expression and flowing rhythm and greater contrast in dynamics. This may have been because it was the only work played under a conductor—Ross Taylor.

VOICE OF OBOE

Perfection of ensemble—was not quite achieved. Not all instruments were heard to equal advantage, and this may have been due to some last minute substitution of players. And so impressive was oboist Ray Duste's command of his instrument and feeling for the music that it was difficult not to focus attention too much on this voice in the ensemble.

The concert opened with the Octet in F major by Haydn. Players in addition to Duste were Jean Stevens, oboe; Frealon Bibbins and Don Carroll, clarinets; Robert Hughes and Leland Smith, bassoons; and Ross Taylor, Robert Tefft and Nelson Green, French horns.

SAUSALITO CAT ON NEOPHYTE? NO, NOT EVEN BY A WHISKER

Mercury may be an unusual cat, but he is not unique.

Woodruff F. Strebeigh of Sausalito, owner of a Mercury, was sure he saw his cat aboard the Neophyte, the ketch with the all-girl crew, as it sailed from Sausalito to Honolulu.

But yesterday, Strebeigh admitted it was a case of mistaken identity. Mercury showed up Saturday evening—on land—chasing a dog near Strebeigh's motor launch Lejota, which had been moored near the Neophyte.

The cat which Strebeigh saw Friday on a televised photograph of the departing Neophyte, and which he was convinced was a shanghaied Mercury, must have been some other black cat with white paws.

"I'm sorry if any trouble was caused," Strebeigh said. "To all cat lovers, at least, I hope everything has turned out very well."

Masked Bandit Gets $272 At Motel Office

A masked, athletic bandit escaped with $272 in cash yesterday from the office of the Edgewater Inn beside Highway 101, Corte Madera police reported.

The robbery was the fifth in five years for the Edgewater.

Milo Johnson of San Francisco, night clerk at the motel, told police the bandit wore rubber gloves, a skin-tight rubber mask, a tan topcoat and rain hat. He brandished a .32-caliber automatic pistol.

Shortly after 1 a.m. the bandit entered the motel office and told Johnson, who was alone in the office, "Back up and hold your hands up!"

He then jumped over the counter and ordered Johnson to lie face down on the floor. He tied the clerk's hands and feet with heavy cord and turned to the cash register.

Johnson said it "sounded as though he were placing the cash in a paper bag." He told Johnson to lie "quiet for a couple of minutes" and vanished.

Johnson waited a short time and began calling for help. His cries were heard by Mrs. Anna Schime, motel housekeeper, in her room nearby. She untied him and called the police.

Johnson said he neither saw nor heard a car outside, and he saw nobody else around when the bandit entered and left. He described the man as about 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing about 170 pounds. Johnson noted the bandit was "very agile," for when he vaulted the counter he didn't disturb a desk blotter or any papers.

Power Failure Black Out Homes On Marin Coast

A power failure for 400 homes in Muir Beach, Stinson Beach and Bolinas Saturday night was blamed today on the failure a safety device on Pacific Gas and Electric Co. equipment on the Diaz Ranch on the Panoramic Highway.

Leonard Robertson, electrical superintendent, said the contact points on the equipment which cuts off electrical service when lines fall down failed at 6:05 p.m.

Power remained off for 100 homes in Bolinas until 9 p.m. It was restored for 250 homes in Stinson Beach at 7:50 p.m. and for 50 homes in Muir Beach at 7:22 p.m., Robertson reported.

The community of Hundred, W. Va., received its name from its first settlers, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Church, who each lived past the century mark. Church died at the age of 109, Mrs. Church at 106.

All In Line Of Duty: Lifting Hot Turkey

In the rush of a busy Saturday night during the holidays, one member of the Novato Police Department took time from his duties to render a humanitarian deed, not in the line of duty.

Sgt. Robert Di Grazia received a call for help at 9:40 p.m. Saturday from Veronica Flory of 917 Sherman Avenue, Novato. He rendered the assistance requested, to the gratitude of the caller: He lifted a turkey out of the oven and onto a platter for her.

Orphans Starting New Year Right

LENOIR, N. C. (AP) — Laughter and thrills of delight rang through the Caldwell County courthouse halls here today as eight orphaned brothers and sisters were reunited to begin a new life.

Through the efforts of Andrea Triplett, a welfare worker, the children were gathered in from six foster homes to begin a 70-mile ride to a Church of God orphanage at Kannapolis, N. C. Another brother, now 10 months old, will join them when he is 2.

There was yelling and hugcries such as "Hey, lookee what I got for Christmas" as the youngsters rallied in this mountain town.

Only Abner, 14, and now the family's oldest, seemed subdued.

"Well, I'm sort of the man of the family now," he said, scuffing his right toe on the courthouse floor. "I guess I can handle it all right."

On Oct. 7, Abner Avery Bentley, 67, a retired carpenter, and his wife, 40, packed their children into the family truck for a trip over a winding road near Morganton.

Bentley lost control of the vehicle and it rolled down a steep incline. When officers arrived they found Bentley and his wife dead. The children escaped serious injury.

The children were moved out of their four-room home to the home of an uncle. He was unable to carry the heavy burden and they were scattered to six foster homes in mid-November.

Miss Triplett, 21, the Caldwell County welfare worker who handled the case, found that the Church of God orphanage would accept all the Bentley orphans except 10-month old Terry Wayne.

"I talked to them as a group. I explained to them this may be the only way they could remain together," Miss Triplett said.

"There were no problems in getting them into the orphanage except for the baby. The orphanage can't take him until he is 2. But he'll join the others then."

Because of welfare regulations, the children were not told where their brothers and sisters were staying. They had no Christmas reunion.

"But they all had a very good Christmas," Miss Triplett said. "Organizations donated clothing and toys. I expect the children had the best Christmas of their lives."

The children are Abner Jr., 14; R. C., 13; Bonnie, 10; Jerry, 9; Darlene, 7; A. B., 6; H. T., 5; Danny Gene, 4, and Terry Wayne.

Corte Madera Burglary A Puzzler?

Did the burglar borrow the telephone and leave 50 cents to pay for the calls? And if so, who rescued his buddy from the tree?

Inspector Harold N. Hockett of Corte Madera police puzzled over these riddles today in the wake of what he called the strangest burglary of 1962.

Hockett said someone stole a small metal lock box containing somewhere between $10 and $50, plus a pair of binoculars, from the home of Clayton J. Janicki and Lewis Yagow at 296 Summit Drive between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. Friday.

And during the same hours, someone left a note, with a half dollar, on a kitchen counter beside the telephone. The note said:

"I borrowed your phone for three local calls. My buddy is trapped in a tree. I have sent for help. I hope you don't mind. Here's 50 cents for the use of your phone."

Janicki next day found the lock box, broken open, near the top of Christmas Tree Hill above the house, Hockett said.

Entry apparently was through an unlocked bedroom window, the inspector reported.

CITIZENS FOR NEW YEAR

Couple From Germany Praise California

By THERON A. NEWELL

It will indeed be a happy new year for Karl and Gertrude Tartsch as they celebrate in the house they designed at 90 Clausing Court, Novato, because they will be celebrating a new year for the first time as American citizens.

Like those of many new citizens, their story began in wartorn Europe.

Mrs. Tartsch was born Gertrud Ann Bohlmann in Bremen, Germany. After completing schooling, including nurse's training, she worked as a dental assistant.

Karl-Heinz Tartsch was born in German Silesia, near the Polish border in 1927. He attended schools there until, when he was 17 years old, his entire class was put into the German Army.

When the Russians invaded Silesia, his family scattered. Karl was captured by American troops, and was a prisoner of war in La Havre, France, for five months.

After the war the family reassembled in Bremen. There Karl became a printer and rose to foreman of a printing plant. He met Gertrude and they married in 1955.

Mrs. Tartsch's sister, Greta, had married S/Sgt. Edmund Souza, who was in the United States Air Force in Europe. They lived at 27 Grove Lane, Novato. She persuaded the Tartches to come to the United States. They arrived in 1957.

They found the country good to them. Karl went to work three days after arriving in Novato. He had studied English for seven years in Germany, so had no trouble with the language. His first job did not last, but his employer there recommended him to the California Printing Co. in San Francisco, where he is now a supervisor.

Mrs. Tartsch worked for a year at San Rafael General Hospital. Since then, she has just been a housewife and mother to their daughter Cornelia, 8, who is now in second grade at Olive School.

Mr. and Mrs. Tartsch designed the house they live in. Frank Novak built it for them.

Mrs. Tartsch said she was surprised at the cheapness of food when she moved to California. One never bought 10 pounds of sugar in Germany because it cost 68 cents a pound. And butter—instead of the 69 cents a pound there, it cost the equivalent of $3.50 a pound in Germany, she said.

California has also been good for Karl's health. In Germany, he suffered a great deal with asthma. In Marin County, he has had only one mild attack in five years.

They like the mild winters here, but have a longing occasionally to get into the snow, which they can do "in just two and a half hours," Mrs. Tartsch said.

They hope to visit their relatives in Germany, perhaps in 1964, and maybe do a little bragging about their home in America.

Woman Likes U.S., Becomes A Citizen

Living four years in Marin County has convinced Mrs. Maureen Carlson, wife of T/Sgt. Edwin Carlson of 1137 Palmer Drive, Novato, that she wants to remain here after her husband retires from the air force.

Mrs. Carlson's ties to her native England were transferred to the United States this month by her naturalization as a United States citizen in federal court in San Francisco.

She was born Maureen Lambert in Bebington, Cheshire, a small town not far from Manchester and Liverpool. She was working as a filing clerk at the Cooperative Club office there when she met her husband, who was stationed at Sealand Air Force Base.

They were married in April, 1958. In August of that year, he was transferred to Hamilton Air Force Base. Their children, Edwin, almost 4; Lorraine, 2, and twins, Stephen and David, 17 months, were all born here.

"My husband and children are all Americans, so I decided to be come one too," she said.

"I like the climate here and it is so beautiful," she said in telling why they had decided to live in Marin County when her husband retires in 11 years.

Her only regret is that her parents have never seen their four grandchildren.

"I suppose that they will someday though," she said.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—A group of Ohio University students has been granted a charter by the state of Ohio for a unique corporation.

They are establishing an Ohio University German Language House, where German must be spoken in all areas except private rooms.

Only three of the 14 men involved speak German fluently, but all are taking courses.

Fish Story Pleases This Pen Manufacturer

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI)—Although it's a "fish story," this anecdote from George Schenck, a Bradenton, Fla., motor court operator, sounded good to a local pen manufacturer.

Lodged in the throat of a 13-pound black grouper he caught on a recent fishing trip, Schenck reported, was a Sheaffer fountain pen. When wiped off and uncapped, it proved to have a full supply of ink and wrote perfectly, he said.

"I like the climate here and it is so beautiful," she said in telling why they had decided to live in Marin County when her husband retires in 11 years.

Her only regret is that her parents have never seen their four grandchildren.

"I suppose that they will someday though," she said.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—A group of Ohio University students has been granted a charter by the state of Ohio for a unique corporation.

They are establishing an Ohio University German Language House, where German must be spoken in all areas except private rooms.

Officials say it is the first nonuniversity, nonfraternity housing unit ever to operate within the confines of Ohio University.

Only three of the 14 men involved speak German fluently, but all are taking courses.

Fish Story Pleases This Pen Manufacturer

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI)—Although it's a "fish story," this anecdote from George Schenck, a Bradenton, Fla., motor court operator, sounded good to a local pen manufacturer.

Lodged in the throat of a 13-pound black grouper he caught on a recent fishing trip, Schenck reported, was a Sheaffer fountain pen. When wiped off and uncapped, it proved to have a full supply of ink and wrote perfectly, he said.

Exterminator, winner of the 1918 Kentucky, was affectionately nicknamed "Old Bones."

Personnel Items On Tap In Larkspur

Two personnel matters will come before the Larkspur City Council meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the city hall, City Mgr. Ronald E. Piper announced today.

Councilman Lesly A. Daveler will present a letter on the 45-page administrative manual recently drafted by Piper at request of Councilman Robert J. Smith. The manual describes the city manager's policies.

Also to be discussed is the proposed revised personnel ordinance as it would relate to the jobs of city clerk Isabelle Moore and city treasurer William Osborn. The positions, formerly elective, were made appointive in the April, 1962, municipal election.

The council will consider a letter from the Arkites Assn., a group of Boardwalk 1 residents, who object to a county parks and recreation commission plan for a park along Corte Madera Creek if it would encroach on their properties.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen agreed.

"The qualifications should have been put in the charter ordinance," said Jensen. "We slipped up there."

Jensen said he strongly favors making the job appointive on the basis of an examination. "I would do everything in my power to take politics out of it entirely," he said.

Councilman Charles W. Aby said "I would like to see something done" prior to the Jan. 22 vote on setting up qualifications for both police chief and city attorney. (By state law, the latter must be a member of the bar.)

"I think it's nonsense to elect administrative officers," comemnted Aby.

Mayor McInnis, Jensen and Aby all are expected to stand for re-election April 9—when Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa also will be seeking re-election if the voters do not meantime make his job appointive.

City Atty. A. E. Bagshaw, who proposed the city attorney job be made appointive, will not seek another term regardless of the outcome of the Jan. 22 vote.

Councilman David Menary Jr. said "it would probably be advisable to take up" qualifications for police chief and take some action prior to Jan. 22 so San Rafael voters will know the intentions of the council. He said he feels appointment by examination is probably the proper course.

Councilman L. H. Bud Baar said "I haven't given a lot of thought" to the matter of how to appoint a police chief. "We should check first with other cities," he suggested.

Menary and Baar will not be up for re-election in April. Their terms have two years to run.

Neophyte Silently Out At Sea

The 45-foot ketch Neophyte, with skipper Lee Quinn and an all-girl crew of four aboard, remained out-of-touch with the world today as it sailed toward Honolulu from Sausalito.

"We know nothing about her, or where she is," a Coast Guard spokesman said. He added: "We won't hear from her unless she gets in trouble and calls us, which is the regular procedure."

Lynne Ulm of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s public relations department in San Francisco said it was illegal, according to Federal Communication Commission rules, to divulge whether any radio telephone calls had been made to or from the boat.

Car Strikes Pedestrian; Driver Cited

Mrs. Virginia M. Culps of 44 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, was cited for running a stop sign and violating a pedestrian's right of way after her car reportedly hit a policeman Thursday at Tamalpais and San Anselmo avenues.

San Anselmo Patrolman Michael Barney, 24, of 7 Homestead Avenue, Mill Valley, reported that he was crossing Tamalpais Avenue in the crosswalk with Reserve Officer Mel Boragno when Mrs. Culps failed to stop, hit him and tossed him upon the hood of her car.

Mrs. Culps told police she didn't see Barney because her windows were fogged over, but she heard somebody yelling at her to stap the car.

Barney was treated later at Marin General Hospital for chest and arm bruises.

$1.50 Bottle May Cost A Bit More

Thomas Carner Partis, 27, a San Francisco clerk, tried to get a free pint of vodka from Shoreline Market in Tamalpais Valley to usher in the New Year.

But it may turn out to be considerably more expensive than the $1.50 which the bottle would have cost.

Lee Vernon Gorman, manager at the market, told Sheriff's Deputy George Reuss he spotted Partis slip the bottle into his coat pocket and walk out yesterday afternoon. Gorman stopped Partis and called the sheriff.

Partis was booked on suspicion of petty theft. Freed on $262.50 bail, he is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday afternoon.

Monkey Herman (Pepi) Home For New Years

Herman the monkey is home for the New Year.

But since Dec. 22, when he escaped from his cage at the Lee Garson home at 652 Marin Drive in Tamalpais Woods, he lost his name and almost lost his tail.

He became "Pepi" after he was found by Mrs. Bernard Sanders in the garage of her home at 759 Marin Drive on Christmas Day. Where he'd been the intervening two days is still a mystery.

The monkey leaped into Mrs. Sanders' arms as she went to the deep freeze in the garage to get some Christmas cranberries. The family — Mr. and Mrs. Sanders and daughters Linda and LuVerne—welcomed the unexpected "Christmas present."

But yesterday, "Pepi" began chewing his tail. Mrs. Sanders said she thought he was made nervous by the Sanders' Chihuahua and cat. Sanders took him to the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael.

Albert O. Bottleson, museum director, was glad to get the little monkey. He said he thought its tail was frost-bitten. "Monkey's have very poor circulation in their tails," he said.

Then, 10 minutes after Sanders returned home from the museum, Garson appeared at the Sanders home to claim his monkey.

The animal, said Garson, was Herman, a nine-week-old squirrel monkey from Argentina. He unfastened the door to his cage and escaped on the night of Dec. 22.

"We were supposed to keep him at an 80-degree temperature and had his room heated to 80 degrees," Garson related. "It was so cold and foggy outside that when he escaped we felt he couldn't live."

Far from being made nervous by other animals, Herman rides on the back of the Garsons' collie, Bullet, his owner said.

Mrs. Garson took the monkey to a San Francisco veterinarian today to see what can be done about the frost-bitten tail.

who did nothing to comply with the governor's happy special-holiday thought, were San Rafael, Corte Madera and Larkspur. But Corte Madera and Larkspur closed city offices early.

All five Larkspur patrolmen were to be on duty tonight and Corte Madera was to have an extra car on call for emergencies.

Fairfax town employees were given holidays both today and last Monday, but two extra police officers were to be on duty tonight. Belvedere closed town offices.

Mill Valley, observing the holiday in conformance with government code, will "augment" the police force tonight, Police Chief Dan Terzich said.

San Anselmo and Sausalito both followed government code like Mill Valley. Neither planned to call in extra police tonight.

Just how sure was anybody that California was really ahead? The firmest word was that of Brown who said a special state count showed a 17,300,000 total, which he thought beyond that of New York.

But that evidently included belief that New York had lost population for a provisional estimate by the U.S. Census Bureau gave New York 17,402,000 population as of last July 1, the corresponding California figure of that date being 16,970,000.

Booked For Vagrancy

David Charles Walker, 35, a New York City rate clerk, was arrested at 2:10 a.m. today by Mill Valley police after it was reported he had been looking into the windows of the home of Patricia Goette of 24 Altamont Avenue "to see if there was a party in progress." Walker was booked on vagrancy at the county jail.

Car Tampered With

Three Spin Cars On School Field

Three youths were caught yesterday afternoon spinning their cars over the Kent School grounds and causing an estimated $300 damage on football field and playground.

Deputy Sheriff Edward A. Koehn said Larkspur police had rounded up the three youths, ranging in age from about 17 to 20. The boys admitted they did not realize they had done much damage. One youth was identified as a Robert George Binz, age 20.

Deputy Koehn referred the matter to school authorities.

Sunny Tomorrow, Weatherman Says

Sunny skies were forecast by the Weather Bureau for Marin County on New Year's Day. The cold snap eased off yesterday with low temperatures reported today in Marin at 31 degrees in Novato, 34 in San Rafael, 36 in Woodacre and Mill Valley, 37 in Point Reyes Station, and 46 in San Anselmo.

Rain fell yesterday north from Ukiah and snow fell as far south as Yosemite in the Sierra Nevada above the 6,000 foot level.

Cabbie Accepts Television As Fare Security

James Wesley Phillips of 777 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley, celebrated New Year's Eve a bit early.

San Francisco cab driver Donald Earl Morgan said Phillips hailed him in San Francisco and asked to be driven to Mill Valley. When they got to Phillips' home about 5 a.m. today, Phillips couldn't pay.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph G. Kelly accompanied cab driver Morgan to Phillips' home and found the front door broken. They found Phillips sound asleep in bed. When they aroused him, Phillips explained he had no money, whereupon the cabbie settled for a table model television set to be taken back to San Francisco as security until Phillips could pay up.

County Jail Flooded By Inmates

Marin County Jail was flooded several times Saturday by inmate "trouble-makers", who plugged the shower drain and toilet bowl and turned on both hot and cold water full blast.

Jailer Nick Roselli first spotted the flooding about 9 a.m. and notified Jailer Fred Hooper. Officers found about an inch of water flooding the floor of the old juvenile cell where about six adults were being held.

The six were transferred to the main cell while the flooded area was being cleaned up. A half hour later, the main jail cell was flooded in the same way.

There was no recurrence yesterday or today. Chief Jailer Frank Christ said he would refer the matter to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for possible disciplinary action against the inmates responsible.

Stop Signs Hit By Someone's Axe

Someone tried to chop down a couple of stop signs in Santa Venetia last night, sherrif's deputies reported today.

Gary Hoffman of 100 La Pasada Drive, told officers he heard a chopping noise about 10 o'clock last night. He looked outside and noticed a young man with an axe or a machete hacking away at a stop sign at La Pasada and Adrian Way.

Sheriff's Deputy Edward A. Koehn said the culprit was gone by the time he arrived, but two signs at the intersection bore axe marks.

County Jail Flooded By Inmates

Marin County Jail was flooded several times Saturday by inmate "trouble-makers", who plugged the shower drain and toilet bowl and turned on both hot and cold water full blast.

Jailer Nick Roselli first spotted the flooding about 9 a.m. and notified Jailer Fred Hooper. Officers found about an inch of water flooding the floor of the old juvenile cell where about six adults were being held.

The six were transferred to the main cell while the flooded area was being cleaned up. A half hour later, the main jail cell was flooded in the same way.

There was no recurrence yesterday or today. Chief Jailer Frank Christ said he would refer the matter to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for possible disciplinary action against the inmates responsible.

Neophyte Silently Out At Sea

The 45-foot ketch Neophyte, with skipper Lee Quinn and an all-girl crew of four aboard, remained out-of-touch with the world today as it sailed toward Honolulu from Sausalito.

"We know nothing about her, or where she is," a Coast Guard spokesman said. He added: "We won't hear from her unless she gets in trouble and calls us, which is the regular procedure."

Lynne Ulm of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s public relations department in San Francisco said it was illegal, according to Federal Communication Commission rules, to divulge whether any radio telephone calls had been made to or from the boat.

The last report, late Sunday, placed the boat 100 miles off the Monterey coast.

Car Strikes Pedestrian; Driver Cited

Mrs. Virginia M. Culps of 44 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, was cited for running a stop sign and violating a pedestrian's right of way after her car reportedly hit a policeman Thursday at Tamalpais and San Anselmo avenues.

San Anselmo Patrolman Michael Barney, 24, of 7 Homestead Avenue, Mill Valley, reported that he was crossing Tamalpais Avenue in the crosswalk with Reserve Officer Mel Boragno when Mrs. Culps failed to stop, hit him and tossed him upon the hood of her car.

Mrs. Culps told police she didn't see Barney because her windows were fogged over, but she heard somebody yelling at her to stap the car.

Barney was treated later at Marin General Hospital for chest and arm bruises.

$1.50 Bottle May Cost A Bit More

Thomas Carner Partis, 27, a San Francisco clerk, tried to get a free pint of vodka from Shoreline Market in Tamalpais Valley to usher in the New Year.

But it may turn out to be considerably more expensive than the $1.50 which the bottle would have cost.

Lee Vernon Gorman, manager at the market, told Sheriff's Deputy George Reuss he spotted Partis slip the bottle into his coat pocket and walk out yesterday afternoon. Gorman stopped Partis and called the sheriff.

Partis was booked on suspicion of petty theft. Freed on $262.50 bail, he is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday afternoon.

Monkey Herman (Pepi) Home For New Years

Herman the monkey is home for the New Year.

But since Dec. 22, when he escaped from his cage at the Lee Garson home at 652 Marin Drive in Tamalpais Woods, he lost his name and almost lost his tail.

He became "Pepi" after he was found by Mrs. Bernard Sanders in the garage of her home at 759 Marin Drive on Christmas Day. Where he'd been the intervening two days is still a mystery.

The monkey leaped into Mrs. Sanders' arms as she went to the deep freeze in the garage to get some Christmas cranberries. The family — Mr. and Mrs. Sanders and daughters Linda and LuVerne—welcomed the unexpected "Christmas present."

But yesterday, "Pepi" began chewing his tail. Mrs. Sanders said she thought he was made nervous by the Sanders' Chihuahua and cat. Sanders took him to the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael.

Albert O. Bottleson, museum director, was glad to get the little monkey. He said he thought its tail was frost-bitten. "Monkey's have very poor circulation in their tails," he said.

Then, 10 minutes after Sanders returned home from the museum, Garson appeared at the Sanders home to claim his monkey.

The animal, said Garson, was Herman, a nine-week-old squirrel monkey from Argentina. He unfastened the door to his cage and escaped on the night of Dec. 22.

"We were supposed to keep him at an 80-degree temperature and had his room heated to 80 degrees," Garson related. "It was so cold and foggy outside that when he escaped we felt he couldn't live."

Far from being made nervous by other animals, Herman rides on the back of the Garsons' collie, Bullet, his owner said.

Mrs. Garson took the monkey to a San Francisco veterinarian today to see what can be done about the frost-bitten tail.

PATROL

who did nothing to comply with the governor's happy special-holiday thought, were San Rafael, Corte Madera and Larkspur. But Corte Madera and Larkspur closed city offices early.

All five Larkspur patrolmen were to be on duty tonight and Corte Madera was to have an extra car on call for emergencies.

Fairfax town employees were given holidays both today and last Monday, but two extra police officers were to be on duty tonight. Belvedere closed town offices.

Mill Valley, observing the holiday in conformance with government code, will "augment" the police force tonight, Police Chief Dan Terzich said.

San Anselmo and Sausalito both followed government code like Mill Valley. Neither planned to call in extra police tonight.

Just how sure was anybody that California was really ahead? The firmest word was that of Brown who said a special state count showed a 17,300,000 total, which he thought beyond that of New York.

But that evidently included belief that New York had lost population for a provisional estimate by the U.S. Census Bureau gave New York 17,402,000 population as of last July 1, the corresponding California figure of that date being 16,970,000.

Booked For Vagrancy

David Charles Walker, 35, a New York City rate clerk, was arrested at 2:10 a.m. today by Mill Valley police after it was reported he had been looking into the windows of the home of Patricia Goette of 24 Altamont Avenue "to see if there was a party in progress." Walker was booked on vagrancy at the county jail.

Car Tampered With

Tracy E. Dormady of 12 Sunnyside Avenue, Mill Valley, reported to Mill Valley police that, while his 1962 Chevrolet convertible was parked on Laurelwood Avenue between 10 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday, someone cut the antenna from the right rear fender and tampered with the spotlights.

Three Spin Cars On School Field

Three youths were caught yesterday afternoon spinning their cars over the Kent School grounds and causing an estimated $300 damage on football field and playground.

Deputy Sheriff Edward A. Koehn said Larkspur police had rounded up the three youths, ranging in age from about 17 to 20. The boys admitted they did not realize they had done much damage. One youth was identified as a Robert George Binz, age 20.

Deputy Koehn referred the matter to school authorities.

Sunny Tomorrow, Weatherman Says

Sunny skies were forecast by the Weather Bureau for Marin County on New Year's Day. The cold snap eased off yesterday with low temperatures reported today in Marin at 31 degrees in Novato, 34 in San Rafael, 36 in Woodacre and Mill Valley, 37 in Point Reyes Station, and 46 in San Anselmo.

Rain fell yesterday north from Ukiah and snow fell as far south as Yosemite in the Sierra Nevada above the 6,000 foot level.

Cabbie Accepts Television As Fare Security

James Wesley Phillips of 777 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley, celebrated New Year's Eve a bit early.

San Francisco cab driver Donald Earl Morgan said Phillips hailed him in San Francisco and asked to be driven to Mill Valley. When they got to Phillips' home about 5 a.m. today, Phillips couldn't pay.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph G. Kelly accompanied cab driver Morgan to Phillips' home and found the front door broken. They found Phillips sound asleep in bed. When they aroused him, Phillips explained he had no money, whereupon the cabbie settled for a table model television set to be taken back to San Francisco as security until Phillips could pay up.

Stop Signs Hit By Someone's Axe

Someone tried to chop down a couple of stop signs in Santa Venetia last night, sherrif's deputies reported today.

Gary Hoffman of 100 La Pasada Drive, told officers he heard a chopping noise about 10 o'clock last night. He looked outside and noticed a young man with an axe or a machete hacking away at a stop sign at La Pasada and Adrian Way.

Sheriff's Deputy Edward A. Koehn said the culprit was gone by the time he arrived, but two signs at the intersection bore axe marks.

'Hope You Have New Year' Not Acceptable Greeting

We were hailed by a friend the other day with the greeting:

"Hope you have a New Year!"

It was a disconcerting greeting and the more we thought about it the less we liked it. At first it was amusing; then it was deadly serious. It encompassed a feeling of despair, of frustration, of resignation even.

It brought visions of an ending world, of the final act of stupidity by man, of destruction and desolation.

And all within the next 12 months.

We simply can not accept such a future for ourselves. We believe that people who insist this is what will happen are creating for themselves, and for us, an atmosphere improper for the concentration on solving our great international problems.

Let's put it bluntly. We do not think man was put on this earth just to blow himself up. We do not think that he will do so. We do think he now has the power to do it if he isn't careful. To us this means that everyone must be careful.

This does not mean a solution can be reached by just one or two of us standing back, away from danger. Everybody is on this shrinking globe together. Just one can pull the safety pin.

We must find ways acceptable to everyone of making living together on this earth safe. This is a necessity, at least until we have perfected science enough to allow us to migrate to other planets.

We think that men today have the ability and the intelligence and the determination to bring peace to a reality if they continue to work on it.

With no hesitation, we wish you a Happy New Year and that goes not only for 1963, but 1964 and 1965 and 1966 and for many years thereafter.

A Commuter's Sundown

Sundown means many things to many people.

For Marin's dairy farmer, it means his cows will be coming in from the pasture.

For the housewife, it generally means a climax to her day's activities in the form of a dinner for the family.

But for Marin's many commuters, sundown usually means the trip home to the warmth and love of the family. For them, sundown often means the end of the rat-race and the beginning of living. Many survive their day of hard work and petty irritation just for this moment of homecoming.

And no one quite appreciates our county's beauties as much as those who have spent the working day in the concrete jungle of The City.

Sundown in Marin means many things to different people. But to the commuter it often means a return to living.

GERMS PROVIDE POWER

A radio transmitter that operates by "germ power" is one of the latest discoveries of science.

The electricity of this transmitter is generated by harmless bacteria, feeding on sugar and living in test tubes containing sea water.

Scientists who developed the device said that besides military uses, this type of electrical power could eventually light entire cities, convert solar energy to power uses, and salt water to drinking water.

It might also find use in generating water and oxygen aboard space ships, convert nitrogen and phosphorus into food and fertilizers and utilize various products and wastes of industry.

Resourceful man has worked wonders in uncovering and putting to practical use the physical powers that the Creator has hidden in nature.

What breathtaking surprises are in store once the ingenuity of man is applied in similar fashion to detecting and developing the largely untapped powers of the human heart, mind and soul.

"Put out into the deep, and lower your nets for a catch." (Luke 5:4)

Thanks to You, O generous Creator, for the endless blessing you lavish on mankind.

Retirement Not Death Sentence; 53% Of Stockholders Are Women

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Retirement is no death sentence. A man who quits work at 65 can expect to live to be 79.6 years old.

Almost 53 per cent of America's individual stockholders are women—but they hold fewer actual shares than men do.

Water doesn't look crowded but it is. Each drop contains about six sextillion atoms.

It is estimated that Americans bought more than one and one-half billion presents this Christmas. About 41 per cent of the average family's gifts are purchased during the Christmas season.

There is some truth in the remark of old-timers that "We don't have winters like we used to." Scientists say the climate gradually is growing warmer.

"A loving wife will do anything for her husband except stop criticizing and trying to improve him"—J. B. Priestley.

Tokyo now has five English-language newspapers.

The dying words of George Washington were, "It is well." James Madison said, "I always talk better lying down." U. S. Grant cried, "Water." Grover Cleveland said, "I have tried so hard to do right." And Woodrow Wilson said to his wife, "Edith, I'm a broken machine, but I'm ready."

Three per cent of the nation's population moves from one state to another each year.

SOME COMETS have no tails, while others have tails up to 150 million miles long.

It takes persistence to be an author. Marcel Proust had to print "Swann's Way" at his own expense. William Faulkner's book "Sound and Fury" was turned down by 13 publishers. It took Theodore Dresier and Erskine Caldwell seven years to get their first novels published.

OF 300,000 known vegetables, only about 30 are widely used as human food.

The longest-lived birds, except for vultures and parrots, are Canada geese. In captivity they have reached the age of 70.

Vampire bats can run on the ground as fast as a rat.

It was Wilson Mizner who observed, "I respect faith, but doubt is what gets you an education."

Tragedy Struck, Firemen On Hand

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

My wife and I wish to take this opportunity to publicly thank the members of the Tamalpais Valley Fire Department for their prompt and efficient response to our call for help, when tragedy struck our family on Christmas Day.

Words are very inadequate to express our very deep appreciation for the assitsance rendered to us during our hour of need.

Living in a comparatively isolated area, it is reassuring to know that there are men who did not hesitate to leave their homes at the height of the Christmas festivities, to go to the aid of others in distress.

Again, our deep thanks, especially to the two members of the department who tried so very hard to help.

Facts Are That Communists Exist

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

As soon as the House Un-American Activities Committee announced its hearings on the question of Communist infiltration into women's "peace movements," I knew, just as surely as God made little apples, that very soon someone would be writing a letter to the Indpendent-Journal protesting this action as a ravishment of motherhood, freedom of speech, motherhood, the cause of peace and motherhood. Muriel Short's letter of Dec. 17 fulfilled my every expectation.

Whether the Mrs. Shorts of this country like it or not, the simple and unvarnished facts are: (a) Communists exist, (b) their every move and tactic is part of a firm and unrelenting drive to overthrow all that this society exists for (including the right of foggy minded pacifists to bleat for unilateral disarmament), and (c) there is substantial evidence that some Communists have infiltrated a number of peace movements in an attempt, obviously, to subvert them to their own ends.

In support of this last proposition, I cite the article in the San Francisco Examiner of Monday, May 21, 1962, on some of the persons involved in these movements; also noteworthy is the fact that a number of the females for whom Mrs. Short's heart bleeds so profusely saw fit to take the Fifth Amendment in their recent appearance before the HUAC.

It is or should be well established by now that a legitimate and proper function of any duly constituted and authorized legislative committee is to investigate and report on the extent of Communist infiltration into any area of our society. The fact that this particular area involves both women and the cause of what some people regard as "peace" in no way insulates it or gives it a sacrosanct status.

It is indeed astounding to realize that, even in this day and age, there are intellectual lightweights among us who regard an investigation into Communist activity as a prying into one's personal political beliefs.

Lesson No. 1 in any primer on Communism is that Communism bears no relationship or similarity whatsoever to the various shades of political opinion which exist in and are consistent with a democracy.

Communism is not simply a form of political unorthodoxy, but is a totalitarian system of social and political subversioin, totally and completely inconsistent with (and potentially destructive of) a democratic form of society.

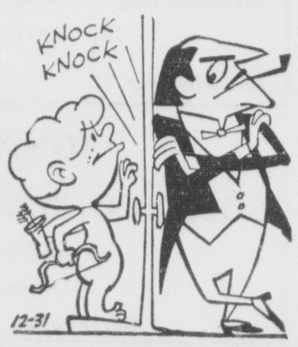
In Pierre La Mure's new novel, "Clair de Lune," based on the life of Claude Debussy, he includes a little fable about a man who suffered a grievous disappointment in a love affair. and swore that he would never love again. He locked himself securely in his room, and would see no one. One day Love knocked on the door, but was denied entrance. When Love tried to get in through the window, the man boarded it up and reinforced it with a heavy steel bar. Love then attempted to enter via the chimney, but the man lit a fire and sent Love up the flue, half-roasted. The man now sealed every hole in the molding and every crack in the floor. Love had no place left to enter. But neither could air. And a few days later they found the poor man dead on the floor. The moral, says La Mure, is that man needs love as much as air if he is to survive.



When young Mrs. Malone answered the phone, it was her mother on the other end of the line. "I hate to impose upon you, my dear," said the mother apologetically, "but Dad wants to take me out tonight to celebrate our 25th anniversary and I wonder if you and Tom can possibly take care of your own children this once."

Look Back, Review The Past Then Look Ahead Into New Year

Last year at this time I made a few predictions. I have just checked back over them and found that most of them came true.

A year ago the world had just come through a crisis and everyone was building bomb shelters, including Hamilton Air Force Base. I predicted that there would not be an atomic war and those that built fallout shelters would find no use for them except as storage places. That was correct.

I also predicted that the Point Reyes National Seashore would be established, and it was.

ANOTHER PREDICTION was that Novato would get a recreation program going during the year. It not only got a recreation program going, but also passed a $100,000 bond issue to build a swimming pool. It went even further than I thought.

Novato, which is my beat, has probably been involved in more battles than any other community in Marin County. However bad these may look on the surface, they are the signs of people interested in their community and how it runs.

THE FIRST BATTLE solved, was that of hiring a new superintendent of schools. That seems to be quiet now and I look for Supt. James G. Bunker to make many changes for the betterment of the Novato Unified School District next year.

Another war that is resting between the third and fourth battles, is the uniting of the two school districts inside the city limits. The battles have been fought over whether they would or would not get together, and then on how they should get together.

I predict that this war will come to a successful conclusion in 1963 with the two districts uniting into one.

ANOTHER AND longer war that was settled this past year is the locating of the freeway route through Novato. It caused many hard feelings and much delay in the skirmishes of the advocates of various routes with the highway commission and engineers.

With that question settled, I look for the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee to make great strides in obtaining industries for this area.

I also look forward to seeing such big developments as Bel Marin Keys, Bahia Del Norte and San Marin making Novato the fastest growing city in the Bay Area.

First among major accomplishments of the year I would list completion of the pipe line to Russian River. This will insure the area of adequate water for many years to come including water for industrial future growth.

Then one must list the purchase of the Presbyterian Church properties by the city. It gives Novato a civic center with more city buildings for the public use in non-concentrated area than any other city in the county.

The fledgling Novato city government is now flaxing its muscles and starting to fly by itself. Proof of this is in the increased police force, city planning department, public works department and building inspection department.

WITH THE STREET improvements starting to show and the city moving into new permanent location, people will begin to realize some of their dreams when they incorporate into a city.

SOME PRIVATE organizations should be thanked also. Not the least of these is the Garden Club, whose untiring efforts in beautifying the city has led to placing trees on Grant Avenue, placing waste paper collection baskets on the parking meters and proposing the landscaping of the center strips along the present Highway 101.

They have also proposed that when it is turned over to the city as a city street, that it be named "Cannon Way," commemorating Mrs. Lucile Cannon, Novato's first woman councilman, who voted in favor of moving the freeway out of the business district.

THE COMMUNITY Club also should be complimented for giving the city some cultural ties. Add the Novato Art Guild to that too.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce for sponsoring western weekend, the biggest and best celebration in all of Marin county, also should be thanked.

To those I have left out, it is just because my editor limits this space. I close with the old wish for the best of everything for everyone for the coming year.

Governor Of North Carolina Speaks Of Emancipation With Authority

WASHINGTON—The aspirations and social conscience of the South is finding a new voice these days in the public speeches of the governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford. It is a voice of moderation and challenge. It is a voice which deserves to be heard and heeded, not only in the South, but everywhere in the United States.

Governor Sanford speaks as a Southerner about Southern social and educational and economic problems. He speaks without self-consciousness and without apology; he speaks with pride—and with realistic candor.

Referring particularly to education, he frankly describes the Southern states as "far behind the rest of the country, generally speaking." He adds:

"WHILE THE DISTRESS and poverty of the Reconstruction explain this, now is no time for explanations. Because we are far behind, it is required of us that we make sacrificial efforts to catch up and assume the lead."

What must be done, what are the essential things to enable the South to catch up and assume the lead? Sanford says they are these—and every word he speaks seems to me to apply to all of us and to every community of us, not just to the South:

"WE NEED OUR own and a new kind of Emancipation Proclamation which will set us free to grow and build, set us free from the drag of poor people, poor schools, from hate, from demagoguery.

"It has to be a bold dream for the future, realistic in terms of the whole country, and aware that the South is entering upon the mainstream of American life.

"This kind of proclamation can be written in one word: 'education.' It must be the kind of education which seeks excellence, reaches all, looks to the future."

Sanford is confident that the South has the material resources to bring itself abreast the rest of the United States and to recover the leadership which has given so much to the nation. Some of its assets are these:

It has one-third of all the good farm land in the nation. It has two-thirds of all the land in our country where the annual rainfall is more than 40 inches, providing water in abundance for industry, crops, transportation, and recreation.

The South produces 65 per cent of the nation's petroleum, 53 per cent of the coal, 76 per cent of the natural gas, and 100 per cent of the bauxite. It is industrializing rapidly.

The governor's overriding concern is that Southern youth be able to match and compete with the rising generation elsewhere in the U.S.

"OUR PUBLIC school system is Southern, and we have no desire to make it Northern or anything but Southern. But that does not require us to be provincial in our efforts to prepare our children to take part in life. The sheer impact of the change taking place in this modern-day America places our children in competition with children from every other section of the country.

"In all professions and businesses the child from the South can no longer think in terms of how good he might be in his own community. . . Our children must prepare themselves to be part of the world, part of the dynamic new South, part of their own new day."

Governor Sanford is demonstrating constructive leadership, and when he speaks of and for the South it seems to me the whole nation will benefit by listening.

10 YEARS AGO

Ross Town Councilman Hugh Jacks was elected mayor, replacing John H. Painter, who resigned "because of the press of business and private affairs." James L. Cockburn Jr. was appointed a councilman.

Trucks were running 45 miles an hour on Cascade Drive in Fairfax, according to a petition signed by 40 residents between Laurel Road and Bolinas Avenue. Fairfax police promised a special drive to catch speeders.

Another war that is resting between the third and fourth battles, is the uniting of the two school districts inside the city limits. The battles have been fought over whether they would or would not get together, and then on how they should get together.

I predict that this war will come to a successful conclusion in 1963 with the two districts uniting into one.

ANOTHER AND longer war that was settled this past year is the locating of the freeway route through Novato. It caused many hard feelings and much delay in the skirmishes of the advocates of various routes with the highway commission and engineers.

With that question settled, I look for the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee to make great strides in obtaining industries for this area.

I also look forward to seeing such big developments as Bel Marin Keys, Bahia Del Norte and San Marin making Novato the fastest growing city in the Bay Area.

First among major accomplishments of the year I would list completion of the pipe line to Russian River. This will insure the area of adequate water for many years to come including water for industrial future growth.

Then one must list the purchase of the Presbyterian Church properties by the city. It gives Novato a civic center with more city buildings for the public use in non-concentrated area than any other city in the county.

The fledgling Novato city government is now flaxing its muscles and starting to fly by itself. Proof of this is in the increased police force, city planning department, public works department and building inspection department.

WITH THE STREET improvements starting to show and the city moving into new permanent location, people will begin to realize some of their dreams when they incorporate into a city.

SOME PRIVATE organizations should be thanked also. Not the least of these is the Garden Club, whose untiring efforts in beautifying the city has led to placing trees on Grant Avenue, placing waste paper collection baskets on the parking meters and proposing the landscaping of the center strips along the present Highway 101.

They have also proposed that when it is turned over to the city as a city street, that it be named "Cannon Way," commemorating Mrs. Lucile Cannon, Novato's first woman councilman, who voted in favor of moving the freeway out of the business district.

THE COMMUNITY Club also should be complimented for giving the city some cultural ties. Add the Novato Art Guild to that too.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce for sponsoring western weekend, the biggest and best celebration in all of Marin county, also should be thanked.

To those I have left out, it is just because my editor limits this space. I close with the old wish for the best of everything for everyone for the coming year.

Governor Of North Carolina Speaks Of Emancipation With Authority

WASHINGTON—The aspirations and social conscience of the South is finding a new voice these days in the public speeches of the governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford. It is a voice of moderation and challenge. It is a voice which deserves to be heard and heeded, not only in the South, but everywhere in the United States.

Governor Sanford speaks as a Southerner about Southern social and educational and economic problems. He speaks without self-consciousness and without apology; he speaks with pride—and with realistic candor.

Referring particularly to education, he frankly describes the Southern states as "far behind the rest of the country, generally speaking." He adds:

"WHILE THE DISTRESS and poverty of the Reconstruction explain this, now is no time for explanations. Because we are far behind, it is required of us that we make sacrificial efforts to catch up and assume the lead."

What must be done, what are the essential things to enable the South to catch up and assume the lead? Sanford says they are these—and every word he speaks seems to me to apply to all of us and to every community of us, not just to the South:

"WE NEED OUR own and a new kind of Emancipation Proclamation which will set us free to grow and build, set us free from the drag of poor people, poor schools, from hate, from demagoguery.

"It has to be a bold dream for the future, realistic in terms of the whole country, and aware that the South is entering upon the mainstream of American life.

"This kind of proclamation can be written in one word: 'education.' It must be the kind of education which seeks excellence, reaches all, looks to the future."

Sanford is confident that the South has the material resources to bring itself abreast the rest of the United States and to recover the leadership which has given so much to the nation. Some of its assets are these:

It has one-third of all the good farm land in the nation. It has two-thirds of all the land in our country where the annual rainfall is more than 40 inches, providing water in abundance for industry, crops, transportation, and recreation.

The South produces 65 per cent of the nation's petroleum, 53 per cent of the coal, 76 per cent of the natural gas, and 100 per cent of the bauxite. It is industrializing rapidly.

The governor's overriding concern is that Southern youth be able to match and compete with the rising generation elsewhere in the U.S.

"OUR PUBLIC school system is Southern, and we have no desire to make it Northern or anything but Southern. But that does not require us to be provincial in our efforts to prepare our children to take part in life. The sheer impact of the change taking place in this modern day America places our children in competition with children from every other section of the country.

"In all professions and businesses the child from the South can no longer think in terms of how good he might be in his own community. . . Our children must prepare themselves to be part of the world, part of the dynamic new South, part of their own new day."

Governor Sanford is demonstrating constructive leadership, and when he speaks of and for the South it seems to me the whole nation will benefit by listening.

Green Bay May Become Greatest Pro Grid Dynasty

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers are champs again and a good bet to achieve the greatest dynasty in professional football history by winning a record third consecutive National League crown in 1963.

They are young; they are deep in manpower; they have an indomitable college-type spirit, and they are driven by a brilliant and dedicated perfectionist in Coach Vince Lombardi.

The consensus of best NFL brains following the Packers' 16-7 victory over the New York Giants in the brutally cold and windy weather that attended yesterday's championship game was "Who's going to stop them from becoming the Yankees of pro football?"

No team ever has won a division title in the NFL four years in a row nor won the league championship three straight seasons since the initiation of the playoff game in 1933.

Someone asked Lombardi if he thought it would be tough for the Packers to attain those goals next season.

"It can't be any tougher than it was this season, I'll tell you," he smiled. "This was a long season."

All the key players who earned a record $5,888.57 winning share by beating the Giants for the second year in a row should be as good, if not better, next season.

And if Paul Hornung can stay around and play a whole season like he did yesterday, this could be the greatest team of all time.

The victory gave Green Bay a record eighth NFL championship. The Packers' predecessors won three titles during the gaslight era of the league and captured playoff championships in 1936, 1939, 1944 and last season.

Jerry Kramer, the Green Bay offensive guard who took over the placement kicking after Hornung injured his knee Oct. 14, booted a playoff record-tying three field goals and fullback Jim Taylor bolted seven yards to a touchdown before a sellout crowd of 64,892 at Yankee Stadium. Kramer's kicks measured 26, 29 and 30 yards.

Essentially, the difference in the teams was that the Packers did everything they had to do on the frozen-hard wind-swept turf.

The Giants' defense was excellent, but their attack was sadly deficient under the adverse weather conditions, especially the passing of Y.A. Tittle.

Crumbled linebacker Sam Huff of the Giants after the game: "They can be beaten, but not when you score only one touchdown in a championship game."

It was small consolation to the Giant players that yesterday's score was far closer than the 37-0 count by which they were routed in Green Bay a year ago. Their $4,166.85 shares, an all-time high for losers, should offer some solace, however.

"The wind ruined the passing and the kicking game," Lombardi agreed. "But both teams had to play in the same wind and on the same field."

A cold front dropped temperature to 17 degrees during the game, although this was warm compared to the weather in which the Packers practiced during the past two weeks. Even more disruptive was the gusty wind which reached 30 miles an hour and

And still champs, the Green Bay Packers. The score of 16 to 7 is convincing enough, but the New York Giants hung mighty tough right down to the final quarter. The Packers were, as the man on TV says, "just a little bit better."

Championship games are usually hard fought, and this one was no exception. It is a shame that the World Series of football has to be played so often under conditions that would discourage a well digger in Alaska.

The winners took home nearly $6,000 apiece, the losers two thirds of that amount. Maybe it was worth it. Somehow it would seem fitting to cut in the crowd that paid hard cash to sit or stand through 15 degree temperatures and 40 mile-per-hour winds.

THE FREEZING weather took the passing out of football and gave it back to the feet. The winning margin came on three field goals, and the lone Giant tally resulted from a blocked kick. And feet slipping on the icy field had a great effect on the outcome. There were times when ice skates would have been in order.

Giant quarterback Y. A. Tittle, the old Bald Eagle, went down to defeat. But not in disgrace. Last year the Packs really rubbed his nose in the dirt. YAT stayed out of trouble this time, and a better break in the weather might have made the difference. Tittle's days are numbered, but he's still a great one.

FOR A title game, there was an unusual amount of yakking at the officials. The complaining started when the Giants though the first Packer field goal was wide, and built up to a crescendo after a pass interference call on Green Bay's Willie Wood. I feel sure that Wood had no intentions of roughing the ref, but there was no question of the intentions of that ruffled individual. Willie was out like a cat with feathers sticking out of his mouth.

Almost immediately after, two holding penalties were called on the Giants, both after passes completed for good gains. It seems possible that the other officials wanted to even things up for what they privately thought was a bum rap on Wood. The calls took the steam out of the Giants and may have changed the whole game.

Next year's title game will be played on the home field of the Western Conference winner. Like maybe the S.F. 49ers or the L.A. Rams? Like maybe I should wake up or kick the habit. The game will be played in Green Bay. Or Detroit. Or even Chicago.

THE SHOWING of Hugh Campbell in the Shrine game must have brought a glow to the eyes of John Brodie of the 49ers. Campbell has all the instinctive moves to make a great pro pass catcher. Only his size is against him. I hope he proves durable.

Kermit Alexander, the 49er first draft choice, is another cinch to make good next year. I have a hunch Coach Red Hickey will use him on defense and as a double threat with Abe Woodson returning punts and kickoffs. His moves are quick and he has an uncanny ability to stay on his feet, even when off balance.

Rose Contest Rated Tossup

PASADENA (UPI) — The University of Southern California and Wisconsin players retired to their secluded retreats today while the fans still puzzled over which team to pick as the victim in tomorrow's 40th annual Rose Bowl football game.

Aside from the most rabid fans on both sides, most observers rated the meeting of the nation's first and second ranked teams as a tossup.

So far as inspiration, personnel and style of play was concerned, there was little to choose between the teams. Southern California was ranked the national champion by sweeping through 10 games without a defeat.

But Wisconsin could have gotten the honor but for a single loss to Ohio State at Columbus where the Badgers have never won a game. Southern California, on the other hand, barely beat Navy although the score read 13-6. The Trojans fumbled, passed poorly and for most of the game were outplayed by the Middies.

So far as individual stars are concerned, both clubs have their standout performers. Wisconsin's success this season in a large measure was due to the all-around brilliance of quarterback Ron VanderKelen who accounted for 1,433 yards in total offense to lead the Big 10 and passed for 12 touchdowns.

TWO QUARTERBACKS

Southern California has relied upon two quarterbacks, Pete Beathard and Bill Nelsen. Although neither is as great a passer as the Badgers' star, between them they have accounted for 1,377 yards and 14 touchdowns through the air.

Both clubs have All-America ends. Wisconsin's Pat Richter caught 38 passes this season for 531 yards and five touchdowns while the Trojans' Hal Bedsole caught 29 passes for 726 yards and nine touchdowns.

Southern California's leading ground-gainer has been fleet halfback Willie Brown who has averaged 6.9 yards per carry and broken away for big yardage including a 92-yard touchdown spurt against Southern Methodist.

Wisconsin's leading rusher has been sophomore fullback Ralph Kurek who averaged 6.1 yards. But the Badgers have numerous speedy backs including Lou Holland, Carl Silvestri, Gary Kroner and Ron Smith to call upon.

For most of the season, Southern California fullback Ken Wilson was hampered by a knee that had not completely recovered from off-season surgery. But in the last two games, against UCLA and Notre Dame, he was a battering ram and played a large part in the Trojans' 25-0 victory over the Irish.

GREAT INCENTIVE

There is little question that the Badgers have a great deal of incentive. Wisconsin is the only Big 10 team that has been beaten twice by coast schools since the closed Rose Bowl pact started in 1946. The coaches and players don5t talk about the record much, but they are grimly resolved to go down fighting for a victory.

Although Southern California has had better success in the New Year's Day classic, this team's goal has been the Rose Bowl and the Trojans want above all to keep from having a blot placed on their ranking as the national championship team.

The game has been a sellout as usual with a crowd of 100,000 assured when the teams come on the field for the 2 p.m., PST, kickoff. The game is being broadcast and televised nationally (NBC).

The probable starting lineups:

New Year's Grid Classics

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many people have troubles of one type or another on New Year's Day. But, no, the poor football fan.

While some of his fellows have to contend only with the flickering that is produced by twitching, aching eyeballs, the football fan must coordinate that flicker with a flickering television screen.

He must get the two flickers in unison. Then he can not only watch but see the Big Four of the college bowl games.

Eight of the nation's Top 10 teams will be in action in the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowl games and each of them is scheduled for national television coverage.

Here's the line-up:

ROSE BOWL at Pasadena—Top-ranked Southern California, 10-0, vs No. 2 Wisconsin, 8-1, to be televised by NBC at 2 p.m., PST.

SUGAR BOWL at New Orleans—Third-ranked Mississippi, 9-0, vs. No. 6 Arkansas, 9-1, to be televised by NBC at 11 a.m. PST.

COTTON BOWL at Dallas—Fourth-ranked Texas, 9-0-1, vs. No. 7 Louisianna State, 8-1-1, to be televised over CBS at 12 p.m., PST.

ORANGE BOWL at Miami—Fifth-ranked Alabama, 9-1, vs. No. 8 Oklahoma, 8-2, to be televised over ABC at 11 a.m., PST.

The long windup weekend started with four games Saturday—featuring Florida's 17-7 upset of Penn State in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

In addition to the Florida upset, the East defeated the West 25-19 in the Shrine game at San Francisco, the Blue beat the Gray 10-6 at Montgomery, Ala. and the Small College All-Stars edged the Major College All-Stars 14-13 in the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz. in Saturday games.

Two second-team All-Americas, Mississippi quarterback Glynn Griffing and Arkansas' Billy Moore, an expert on the roll-out, will show their wares in the Sugar Bowl. Mississippi, unbeaten for the first time in its history, is favored by a touchdown.

LSU is a narrow favorite over Texas in the Cotton Bowl in a game that is expected to be a battle of defenses. LSU allowed only 34 points this season, Texas 59. The Tigers' attack centers around All-America halfback Jerry Stovall while the Longhorns have a good running game with Ray Poage the big gun.

Alabama's grudging defense, led by All-America center Lee Roy Jordan, is a slight favorite to turn back Oklahoma's resurgent Sooners in the Orange Bowl. Quarterback Monte Deere, who heads the Sooner offense, was sidelined with the flu for a while, but has been declared fit and ready for action.

Major Hurdle Cleared For Sonny-Floyd Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—At least one major roadblock—money, was cleared today for a possible Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson rematch for the heavyweight boxing championship.

But the method used to clear it may hurt Patterson almost as much as the first fight did.

Promoter Tom Bolan said the government had approved a settlement of tax claims against the last fight Sept. 25 in Chicago, in which Liston knocked out the then champion in the first round.

Bolan said this was a major factor in a rematch, and he expected to make an announcement in a few days. He said either Las Vegas or Baltimore is the likely site, with Miami an outside possibility.

Under the settlement by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, all but $400,000 of the more than two million dollars impounded the night of the fight will be released, Bolan said.

A plan to pay Patterson his estimated purse of more than one million dollars over a 17-year period had to be junked, Bolan said. The government agreed on a two-year pay period, which will up Patterson's tax payments a great deal.

Tars Finish Tourney In Last Place

The College of Marin Tars will be hoping to get back into the winning column Friday night at University of San Francisco when the Tar cagers take on the USF javee team at 8 o'clock.

College of Marin was wiped out at the Hancock Holiday Basketball Tournament in Santa Maria when the cagers lost all three of their games.

Their last defeat Saturday was to Santa Ana, 80-42, as the Tars showed they were just in over their heads in the sink or swim battle for last place in the eight-team tourney.

Santa Ana led throughout the game and carried a halftime lead of 42-21. COM's Dave Neumann led the Tar scorers with 15 points and Charlie Bullock hit for 10 digits in the runner-up spot.

Cal Riemcke, coach for the Tar cagers, is confident the tide will turn when the Golden Valley Conference opens Jan. 11. The league opener for the Tars will take place in the Drake High School gym when the Mariners take on the quint from Siskiyou College.

"If we get a win in that first game we'll probably do all right," he said.

Santa Anita Winner

ARCADIA (AP) — Kingomine, $3.80, won the $68,625 California Breeders' Champion Stakes and Native Diver, $3.40 won the $29,300 Malibu Stakes in the two features at Santa Anita where Willie Shoemaker rode five winners Saturday.

AMERICAN CAGE LEAGUE FOLDS

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Basketball League, formed two years ago, is suspending operations, officials confirmed today.

Commissioner Abe Saperstein called a noon news conference to announce suspension of the league.

The owner of the Harlem Globe-trotters who sponsored the pro circuit was reported to be calling off next year's season because of losses and bleak prospects for the immediate future.

Saperstein was reported about $55,000 out-of-pocket in unrecovered expenses.

Computer Picks Wisconsin Over Trojans By 10 Points

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wisconsin will defeat Southern California in the Rose Bowl tomorrow by 10 points—at least that's what the machines say.

One of Universal Data Processing Corporation's computers, which doesn't know a punt from a pass—and maybe that's best—reared its mechanical little head Saturday and spat out predictions for the New Year's Day games.

In addition to the Rose Bowl pick the computer tabbed:

—Mississippi by 7 over Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

—Texas by 1 over LSU in the Cotton Bowl.

—Alabama by 7 over Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

The computer did its figuring on quarter by quarter scores and final scores of 163 bowl games since 1916, and statistics of 60 Bowl games since 1947.

But the method used to clear it may hurt Patterson almost as much as the first fight did.

Promoter Tom Bolan said the government had approved a settlement of tax claims against the last fight Sept. 25 in Chicago, in which Liston knocked out the then champion in the first round.

Bolan said this was a major factor in a rematch, and he expected to make an announcement in a few days. He said either Las Vegas or Baltimore is the likely site, with Miami an outside possibility.

Under the settlement by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, all but $400,000 of the more than two million dollars imopunded the night of the fight will be released, Bolan said.

A plan to pay Patterson his estimated purse of more than one million dollars over a 17-year period had to be junked, Bolan said. The government agreed on a two-year pay period, which will up Patterson's tax payments a great deal.

Tars Finish Tourney In Last Place

The College of Marin Tars will be hoping to get back into the winning column Friday night at University of San Francisco when the Tar cagers take on the USF javee team at 8 o'clock.

College of Marin was wiped out at the Hancock Holiday Basketball Tournament in Santa Maria when the cagers lost all three of their games.

Their last defeat Saturday was to Santa Ana, 80-42, as the Tars showed they were just in over their heads in the sink or swim battle for last place in the eight-team tourney.

Santa Ana led throughout the game and carried a halftime lead of 42-21. COM's Dave Neumann led the Tar scorers with 15 points and Charlie Bullock hit for 10 digits in the runner-up spot.

Cal Riemcke, coach for the Tar cagers, is confident the tide will turn when the Golden Valley Conference opens Jan. 11. The league opener for the Tars will take place in the Drake High School gym when the Mariners take on the quint from Siskiyou College.

"If we get a win in that first game we'll probably do all right," he said.

New Year's Grid Classics

Independent-Journal Sports

Monday, Dec. 31, 1962 11

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many people have troubles of one type or another on New Year's Day. But, no, the poor football fan.

While some of his fellows have to contend only with the flickering that is produced by twitching, aching eyeballs, the football fan must coordinate that flicker with a flickering television screen.

He must get the two flickers in unison. Then he can not only watch but see the Big Four of the college bowl games.

Eight of the nation's Top 10 teams will be in action in the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowl games and each of them is scheduled for national television coverage.

Here's the line-up:

ROSE BOWL at Pasadena—Top-ranked Southern California, 10-0, vs No. 2 Wisconsin, 8-1, to be televised by NBC at 2 p.m., PST.

SUGAR BOWL at New Orleans—Third-ranked Mississippi, 9-0, vs. No. 6 Arkansas, 9-1, to be televised by NBC at 11 a.m. PST.

COTTON BOWL at Dallas—Fourth-ranked Texas, 9-0-1, vs. No. 7 Louisianna State, 8-1-1, to be televised over CBS at 12 p.m., PST.

ORANGE BOWL at Miami—Fifth-ranked Alabama, 9-1, vs. No. 8 Oklahoma, 8-2, to be televised over ABC at 11 a.m., PST.

The long windup weekend started with four games Saturday—featuring Florida's 17-7 upset of Penn State in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

In addition to the Florida upset, the East defeated the West 25-19 in the Shrine game at San Francisco, the Blue beat the Gray 10-6 at Montgomery, Ala. and the Small College All-Stars edged the Major College All-Stars 14-13 in the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz. in Saturday games.

Two second-team All-Americas, Mississippi quarterback Glynn Griffing and Arkansas' Billy Moore, an expert on the roll-out, will show their wares in the Sugar Bowl. Mississippi, unbeaten for the first time in its history, is favored by a touchdown.

LSU is a narrow favorite over Texas in the Cotton Bowl in a game that is expected to be a battle of defenses. LSU allowed only 34 points this season, Texas 59. The Tigers' attack centers around All-America halfback Jerry Stovall while the Longhorns have a good running game with Ray Poage the big gun.

Alabama's grudging defense, led by All-America center Lee Roy Jordan, is a slight favorite to turn back Oklahoma's resurgent Sooners in the Orange Bowl. Quarterback Monte Deere, who heads the Sooner offense, was sidelined with the flu for a while, but has been declared fit and ready for action.

AMERICAN CAGE LEAGUE FOLDS

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Basketball League, formed two years ago, is suspending operations, officials confirmed today.

Commissioner Abe Saperstein called a noon news conference to announce suspension of the league.

The owner of the Harlem Globe-trotters who sponsored the pro circuit was reported to be calling off next year's season because of losses and bleak prospects for the immediate future.

Saperstein was reported about $55,000 out-of-pocket in unrecovered expenses.

Computer Picks Wisconsin Over Trojans By 10 Points

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wisconsin will defeat Southern California in the Rose Bowl tomorrow by 10 points—at least that's what the machines say.

One of Universal Data Processing Corporation's computers, which doesn't know a punt from a pass—and maybe that's best—reared its mechanical little head Saturday and spat out predictions for the New Year's Day games.

In addition to the Rose Bowl pick the computer tabbed:

—Mississippi by 7 over Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

—Texas by 1 over LSU in the Cotton Bowl.

—Alabama by 7 over Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

The computer did its figuring on quarter by quarter scores and final scores of 163 bowl games since 1916, and statistics of 60 Bowl games since 1947.

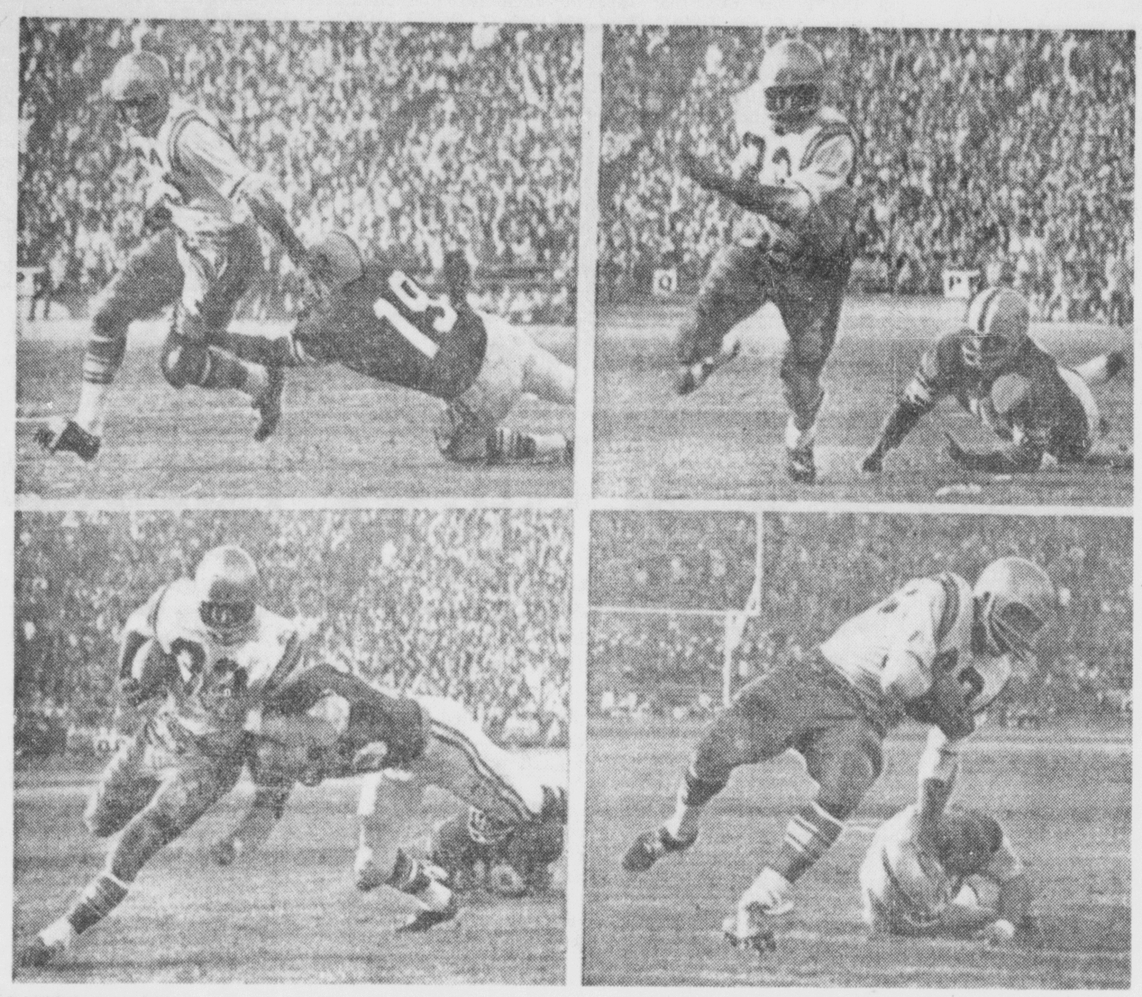
Lamonica Is Happy He Signed With AFL Buffalo Bills



FUTURE 49ER — Kermit Alexander (33) West's speedy back from UCLA, shows why the San Francisco 49ers picked him as their No. 1 draft choice as he gets away from two East backs in Saturday's East-West Shrine football classic in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. On this end run in the third quarter, Alexander got away first from East's Larry Ferguson (19) of Iowa, top frames, and then Jim Moss (25) of West Virginia. (AP Wirephoto)

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Daryle Lamonica, the darling of the Shrine East-West football game, said today that he's "real happy" that he already has been signed with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

Lamonica, who broke records while tossing three touchdown passes and leading the East to a brilliant 25-19 victory, also had been drafted as the No. 12 choice of the Green Bay Packers after he had a fine last-half season with Notre Dame.

"I realize now that I probably could have got more money if I had waited until after this game," says Lamonica. "But I'm perfectly happy to be with Buffalo. They treated me swell."

Lamonica was one of many men who already have been signed by the pros, or who have been drarfted, who staged outstanding performances in the 38th annual classic featuring college seniors.

Sonny Gibbs of Texas Christian, who has been signed by the Dallas Cowboys of the National League, completed 22 out of 37 passes for 271 yards. That was the most completions in the history of the game. But Lamonica was even better. He completed 20 out of 28 for 349 yards—easily cracking the old mark of 243, set by Don Meredith of Southern Methodist in 1960.

The quarterbacks weren't the only standouts, however.

Hugh Campbell of Washington State, already under contract to the San Francisco 49ers, caught 10 passes and was named the outstanding lineman of the game. He looked like a coming great.

But so did John Mackey of Syracuse. John, No. 2 draft choice of the Baltimore Colts, caught five for 146 yards and two touchdowns. And Paul Flatley, No. 4 draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings, nabbed eight tosses from Lamonica for 100 yards and one score.

The line play was outstanding, too. Combined, the teams gained only 118 yards. Great defensive work in the line by Bob Vogel of Ohio State, No. 1 choice of Baltimore, helped the East. And Lionel Aldridge of Utah State, No. 4 choice of the Green Bay Packers, was sensational for the West.

George Saimes, No. 6 choice of the Los Angeles Rams, looked outstanding as a ball packer and pass receiver. So did big Jim Bobbitt, 250-pound tackle from Michigan State, who is the No. 10 choice of Cleveland. And Ed Budde of Michigan State, who already has signed with Dallas of the American League, looked strong.

The sleeper in the lot may be Ronnie Goodwin of Baylor. A tiny, 175-pound scat-back from Baylor, Ronnie was the No. 16 draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles. But he caught seven passes for 98 yards, although he never carried the ball—which may have been a mistake.

"If I had it to do over again," said losing West head coach Dan Devine, "I think I'd run a little more with Kermit Alexander, Charlie Mitchell and Goodwin."

After 38 Games It's 455-455

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —The East and West were all even and ready to start all over again after playing 33 Shrine games in San Francisco.

A talented East squad, led by Daryle Lamonica of Notre Dame, downed the West 25-19 Saturday in a battle of aerial bullets that was not desided until the final 87 seconds.

The final touchdown of the day, a two yard run by Larry Ferguson of Iowa, was the only score made on the ground. It gave the East 455 points for the 38 games—the exact number of points the 38 West squads have scored.

The West has a slight margin in wins at this Shrine classic with 18 wins to 16 for the East and four ties.

But Saturday the East had a bit the best of it.

Lamonica broke a Shrine game record in the first half with three touchdown passes. But Sonny Gibbs of Texas Christian equalled that during the second half when he tossed his third scoring aerial.

Lamonica also set a new Shrine game record of 349 yards gained passing. And he copped the William Coffman Trophy as the game's outstanding back.

Hugh Campbell of Washington State won the E. Jack Spaulding Trophy for the outstanding lineman—based in part on his record-breaking 10 catches, two of which were for touchdowns.

Gibbs also set a game record ingby completeing 22 tosses. He tied another with 37 attempts.

And that was the story of this wide open game—passing.

The West gained only 45 yards on the ground and the East only 73. But when Gibbs and Lamonica took to the air the 60,000 spectators were treated to a dazzling show.

During one seven minute period in the second quarter there were four aerial touchdowns, two by each side. That left the East squad ahead 19-13 at halftime because of a 41-yard Lamonica pass to John Mackey of Syracuse in the first quarter.

Neither side scored in the third quarter or the first 12 minutes of the fourth. Then Gibbs hit Campbell for a touchdown to tie the game at 19-19 with two minutes and 56 seconds left in the game.

But that was plenty of time for Lamonica. He completed six consecutive passes on a 90-yard march that was culminated in Ferguson's winning counter, which came with one minute, 27 second remaining on the clock.

Mackey, like Campbell, caught two touchdown passes. The first was a 41-yarder to open the scoring and the other a nifty 69 yard effort in the second quarter to break a 7-7 tie. Lamonica's other scoring was a 29 yarder to Paul Flatley of Northwestern.

Gibbs tallied on 25 and 23 yard shots to Campbell and a 27 yarder to Ronnie Goodwin of Baylor.

Florida Whips Penn State In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Add to the list of outstanding young college quarterbacks the name of Tom Shannon, cocky left-handed sophomore who led the underdog Florida Gators to a 17-7 victory over Penn State in the Gator Bowl football game.

He's a leader and has the makings of a really fine quarterback. Take the word of Larry Libertore, 138-pounder who lost the job to Shannon in the third game of the season. Libertore, most valuable player in Florida's 1960 Gator Bowl victory, made the presentation of this year's award to Shannon after last Saturday's game.

Shannon led an underdog Florida squad out against a Penn State team that was tops in the East, No. 9 in the nation and was favored by more than a touchdown.

Desire, fanned by criticism of the Gator Bowl for selecting Florida with its 6-4 record, made the Gators play their best.

Maybe Shannon didn't need the incentives, but at any rate he threw a pair of touchdown passes —seven yards to Larry Dupree and 19 yards to Hagood Clark - completed seven of nine tosses for 79 yards and gained 26 yards running. Dupree, also a sophomore and an all-SEC back, was top runner with 66 yards.

College Cage Teams Open Conference Play This Week

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Conference basketball opens this week after a series of holiday tournaments shuffled the favorites and brought a promise of wide open championship competition.

UCLA, powered by playmaker Walt Hazzard, scored an upset by winning the Los Angeles Basketball Classic on Saturday night with a 68-64 victory over Colorado State.

SJS SURPRISES

Just as surprising was the title won by San Jose State's Spartans in the West Coast Athletic Conference tournament with a 55-51 triumph over St. Mary's Independent Oregon State lived up to its reputation as one of the West's top clubs by defeating Iowa 64-57 for the championship of the Far West Classic at Portland. Mel Counts, the 7-foot junior center, scored 35 points and grabbed 24 rebounds as the Beavers won the crown.

CAL THIRD

California proved it will be a factor in the Big Six race by capturing third place at Portland with a 78-46 victory over Oregon for third place. The Bears shot an amazing 61.3 percentage in the second half.

This week's slate starts slowly and ends fast. Tomorrow Montana State plays at Seattle and Gonzaga goes against Portland on Thursday.

Big Six campaigning opens Friday night with Southern California and UCLA at Washington. Washington State, newest member of the conference, goes at Oregon State.

The same clubs meet on Saturday night. WCAC action opens that night with San Jose at University of the Pacific, University of San Francisco at Loyola and Santa Clara at Pepperdine. Independent Seattle is at Montana State.

TWO OVERTIMES

Stanford, the pre-tournament favorite at Los Angeles, finally won a game Saturday night after losing its first two. But it took two overtimes for the Indians to turn back lightly regarded Washington 63-62 on Bob Sommers' jump shot with 40 seconds remaining.

In the finale, Hazzard scored 16 points and Fred Slaughter tallied 17 to give UCLA the championship over the Colorado State club that beat the Bruins in overtime 66-65 earlier this season at Fort Collins.

SEATTLE WINS

At Portland, the final days games also saw Seattle defeat Arizona 75-59 for fourth place and Rich Porter hit a jump shot with eight seconds remaining to give Idaho a 64-63 victory over Washington State for seventh place.

San Jose's margin of victory over St. Mary's was four free throws in the final two minutes with Alan Jancsi and Bill Robertson dropping one each and Bill Yonge scoring two.

Host USF took third place with an 84-60 victory over Santa Clara.

'Lil' School All-Stars Defeat Majors 14-13

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The big school vs. small school format of the All-American Bowl football game most likely will be retained in the future —because the smalls finally got on the big end of the score.

Quarterback Jon Anabo of Fresno State scored a fourth quarter touchdown that gave the "Li'l" School All-Stars a 14-13 victory over their major school opponents, ending four years of frustration for the small schools.

The brilliant pass catch of Willie Richardson of Jackson State and the fine punting and running of Texas A & I's Tom Janik helped the small schoolers spring the upset before 9,000 fans in the fifth annual game.

Richardson grabbed seven passes for 88 yards including three key catches during the winning touchdown drive. And the sports writers reciprocated for his performance by naming him the game's outstanding player.

Janik averaged 47.6 yards on five punts that kept the majors in the hole most of the game and also scored the first small school touchdown.

Bob Brezina of Houston scored both touchdowns for the Major School All-Stars, on runs of 29 and two yards.

That latter gave the majors a 13-6 lead in the fourth quarter, but the small schoolers drove for the game-winning score with Anabo sneaking over from a yard out to cap the drive.

California proved it will be a factor in the Big Six race by capturing third place at Portland with a 78-46 victory over Oregon for third place. The Bears shot an amazing 61.3 percentage in the second half.

This week's slate starts slowly and ends fast. Tomorrow Montana State plays at Seattle and Gonzaga goes against Portland on Thursday.

Big Six campaigning opens Friday night with Southern California and UCLA at Washington. Washington State, newest member of the conference, goes at Oregon State.

The same clubs meet on Saturday night. WCAC action opens that night with San Jose at University of the Pacific, University of San Francisco at Loyola and Santa Clara at Pepperdine. Independent Seattle is at Montana State.

TWO OVERTIMES

Stanford, the pre-tournament favorite at Los Angeles, finally won a game Saturday night after losing its first two. But it took two overtimes for the Indians to turn back lightly regarded Washington 63-62 on Bob Sommers' jump shot with 40 seconds remaining.

In the finale, Hazzard scored 16 points and Fred Slaughter tallied 17 to give UCLA the championship over the Colorado State club that beat the Bruins in overtime 66-65 earlier this season at Fort Collins.

SEATTLE WINS

At Portland, the final days games also saw Seattle defeat Arizona 75-59 for fourth place and Rich Porter hit a jump shot with eight seconds remaining to give Idaho a 64-63 victory over Washington State for seventh place.

San Jose's margin of victory over St. Mary's was four free throws in the final two minutes with Alan Jancsi and Bill Robertson dropping one each and Bill Yonge scoring two.

Host USF took third place with an 84-60 victory over Santa Clara.

'Lil' School All-Stars Defeat Majors 14-13

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The big school vs. small school format of the All-American Bowl football game most likely will be retained in the future —because the smalls finally got on the big end of the score.

Quarterback Jon Anabo of Fresno State scored a fourth quarter touchdown that gave the "Li'l" School All-Stars a 14-13 victory over their major school opponents, ending four years of frustration for the small schools.

The brilliant pass catch of Willie Richardson of Jackson State and the fine punting and running of Texas A & I's Tom Janik helped the small schoolers spring the upset before 9,000 fans in the fifth annual game.

Richardson grabbed seven passes for 88 yards including three key catches during the winning touchdown drive. And the sports writers reciprocated for his performance by naming him the game's outstanding player.

Janik averaged 47.6 yards on five punts that kept the majors in the hole most of the game and also scored the first small school touchdown.

Bob Brezina of Houston scored both touchdowns for the Major School All-Stars, on runs of 29 and two yards.

That latter gave the majors a 13-6 lead in the fourth quarter, but the small schoolers drove for the game-winning score with Anabo sneaking over from a yard out to cap the drive.

Baseball Men May Buy Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams ownership picture—straightened out last week after years of squabbling—took on another look today with the prospect of seven baseball men buying in.

Ram President Daniel F. Reeves, newly re-established as sole proprietor, reeled off a blue ribbon list Saturday of Los Angeles Angels hierarchy He said they want to help him share the bill for what turned out to be the highest price ever paid for a National Football League franchise.

Reeves last Thursday bid 7.1 million dollars for the club to wrest control from fellow owners Edwin W. Pauley, Hal Seley and Fred Levy Jr. Since stockbroker-sportsman Reeves already held one-third interest in the club, his actual financial outlay is to be 4.8 million dollars.

Willing to help him complete the purchase, Reeves said, are seven men whose names would seem just as much at home on a list of opera patrons:

EX-GRIDDER

Robert O. Reynolds, president of the American League Angels, radio executive and former Stanford star football player; former cowboy actor Gene Autry, chairman of the board of the Angels; Washington, D.C., attorney Paul A. O'Bryan, secretary and general counsel of the Angels; Leonard K. Firestone, director of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., and vice president of the Angels; Joseph A. Thomas, director of the Angels and a prominent New York investment broker; Robert Lehman, senior partner of Lehman and an Angel stockholder, and financier J. D. Stetson Coleman, Angel stockholder.

Their tentative agreement to take over 40 per cent of the Rams is subject to approval of other NFL owners.

Pilot Gives Nice New Year's Gift To Orphan Boys

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Airline pilot Jack Adams of nearby Walls, Miss., has arranged a New Year's Day treat for 30 New Orleans orphan boys.

Adams will furnish 30 tickets to the Sugar Bowl football game involving Mississippi and Arkansas, pay for transportation and box lunches and supply each boy $3 spending money.

Originally, Adams planned to take his wife to the game. While checking about tickets, he discovered he could buy a block of 30 seats at $6 each.

"My wife agreed that we can go to the game a lot of other years ," said Adams. "We decided to let some children go in a group — children who otherwise would not be able to go."

Oakland Swimmers In Pan-Am Games

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Roberta Armstrong of Paso Robles and Barbara Burke of Hollywood have been named to represent the U.S. in solo synchronized swimming at the Pan American Games in Brazil next April.

The Athens Water Follies of Oakland won in team competition and a berth on the Pan American team.

Roses Parade Tomorrow To Feature Memorable Moments

PASADENA (UPI) — The 74th Tournament of Roses will depict events ranging from the last days of Pompei to man on the moon in vivid floral setting tomorrow in a renewal of one of the most spectacular New Year's events of all.

An estimated 1.5 million spectators will line the parade route, while another 90 million will watch over two national television networks (NBC, CBS). Slightly below normal temperatures—in the 40s in early morning—were forecast, but the Weather Bureau anticipated clear, sunny conditions otherwise.

Theme for the parade is "Memorable Moments," and a number of the 62 floats seem deeply influenced by man's race for space. This was symbolized by the selection of Dr. William Pickering, director of Caltech's Jet-Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) and a key figure in America's first successful satellite orbit, as the grand marshal.

Originated in 1890 as a village celebration sponsored by the Valley Hunt Club, the tournament of Roses has become a spectacle in itself that annually attracts more than a million spectators.

Among the more spectacular entries in the parade is the San Francisco float, "Moment of Anticipation." It depicts the moon, complete with craters and tall spiked shaped mountains. A moon-man peers out of a crater, and a huge flaming sun in brilliant shades of red and yellow chrysanthemums is suspended on a pathway of vanda orchids.

The variety of floats was demonstrated by such other entries as "Last Days of Pompei," entered by Chevrolet Motors; "Flag Raising of Iwo Jima," entered by Pasadena's Post 13 of the American Legion, with six Marines to re-enact the famed World War II episode; "Vacation in the Sun," entered by Mexico; "Belle's First," which will combine the Portland Zoo's elephant Belle drawing her "baby" son, Packy, down a flowery lane in a baby buggy, and "Lindbergh's Flight to Paris," entered by American Legion Post 707, which features a floral version of "Spirit of St. Louis."

The 5½-mile parade will feature the famed University of Wisconsin band, among others, with a variety of television and western personalities in tow.

Celts Make S.F. Debut Wednesday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors will be going for their first win over the Boston Celtics this season when the teams collide Wednesday in a National Basketball Assn. game at the Cow Palace.

The Warriors won five of seven on their recent road trip. Both losses were inflicted by the Celtics, who defeated the Warriors once earlier this season.

San Francisco climaxed five straight away contests with a 114-109 victory over the New York Knicks Saturday. Wilt Chamberlain led San Francisco scorers, as usual, with 33 points, below his average.

But since Chamberlain has been scoring below his normal 48 points a game, the Warriors have been winning. This indicates better point distribution among the Warriors.

Willie Naulls, recently acquired from the Knicks, scored 16. Guy Rodgers had a hot night with 26 points. Tom Meschery, coming along after military duty and a wrist break, meshed 16. Richie Guerin of the Knicks topped everyone with 41 markers.

PITCHER WINS A WIFE, U.S. LOSES $9,000

STOCKTON (UPI)—San Francisco Giant pitcher Bob Garibaldi had a new bride today and Uncle Sam was out $9,000 because of it.

Garibaldi wed the former Carol McNabb yesterday at the Church of Annunciation here. By marrying this year instead of next, as they had originally planned, the two 20-year-olds saved themselves the $9,000 in income taxes.

The taxes are on the reported $150,000 given Garibaldi by the Giants to sign on as a pitcher with the National League champs.

Garibaldi pitched for University of Santa Clara last spring, and was then signed by the Giants. He saw some action with them during the 1962 season.

S.F. State Gators Crush L.A., 80-62

LOS ANGELES (AP) — San Francisco State's Golden Gators hit 41.3 per cent of their field goals to swamp Los Angeles State 80-68.

10,000 Wild Fans Greet The Champs

GREEN BAY, Wis., (UPI) — More than 10,000 shrieking fans cracked a sound record last night to give the National Football League champion Green Bay Packers a "welcome home" hot enough to counteract the minus seven degree weather.

Cars lined up for a half mile along roads into the airport to welcome the team that made this city of 65,000 "Titletown U. S. A." for the second consecutive year. The Packers defeated the New York Giants for the NFL crown, 16-7, yesterday.

"I never experienced so much happiness in all my life," said defensive halfback Willie Wood, as he stepped into a terminal where shouting fans were literally jammed nose-to-nose.

LIKE CHRISTMAS

"This kind of makes the New Year like Christmas," he said.

"We just wanted to win, that's all," Wood said of his teammates. "It's nice to be the world's champions even without the money involved."

The Packers brought home a record $5,888.57 apiece as their share of the game's receipts.

"Being champ feels great," said defensive halfback Jess Whittenton.

"Now we can go home and watch television and watch the 'best team' playoff down in Florida," he quipped referring to the playoff between the NFL's second place teams, Detroit and Pittsburgh, next month in Florida. Detroit was the only team to beat Green Bay during the season.

NOSIEST CROWD

The airport hosted a "noisiest crowd in the world," in an impromptu celebration that veteran newsmen called much bigger than last year when the team won the championship playing on its own field.

"It's the noisiest thing we've ever had," said one sportswriter.

Civil defense workers were called out to help the entire county police force and auxiliary police handle traffic. Several minor accidents were reported on roads leading to the field even before the Packers' chartered flight touched down two hours late.

Packer fans showed what they thought of New York linebacker Sam Huff, who said after the game, "hey (the Packers) are a good team, but they can be beaten."

Marinites In All-Star Win

With four Billings-Hutchison Builders of Marin playing key roles, the Alameda Winter League All-Stars clobbered the stars from the San Francisco Triple A League 13-2 yesterday.

Starting hurler Jerry Walters continued his masterful pitching as he received the win while pitching the first three innings of the contest. Walters, property of the Cleveland Indians, pitched no-hit, no-run ball for his stint and struck out six of the San Francisco batters. Besides being credited with the victory, Walters earned the outstanding individual performance honor.

Walters' battery mate, Builder catcher Larry Smoot, broke the game wide open in the first inning with a three-run triple. The lead was never headed.

Builder infielders Ron Blum and Ron Cole each contributed key hits and defensive gems. Next Sunday the Builders of Marin will resume league play in the Alameda Winter League with a home game at San Anselmo's Municipal Park.

Both Teams Proud After NFL Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a game both teams were proud of—the losers as well as the winners—a close, savagely-fought game.

"They couldn't have been better," said Coach Vince Lombardi of his Green Bay Packers, who had just won their second straight National Football League championship yesterday with a 16-7 triumph over the New York Giants.

"They vindicated themselves. There was no humiliation today," was losing Coach Allie Sherman's firmly-intoned comment on his club, reflecting on the crushing 37-0 defeat the Giants suffered at Green Bay in last year's title playoff.

Then Sherman went on to give what a capsule sum-up of the punishing battle, played in icy winds on Yankee Stadium's frozen turf:

". . . We were so close at times. But we lost out because we didn't finish up and they did."

Both sides were supremely prepared for this big one. They were ready physically and mentally — and each side had intense desire, for its own special reason.

"We wanted it real bad," said the Giants' masterful, 36-year-old quarterback, Y. A. Tittle. And Sherman explained why:

Both teams came out of the match with a healthy respect for the opposition, especially the winners for the losers.

Paul Hornung, a very weary halfback, said simply that he'd "never played in a tougher game."

After what was basically a bitter defensive struggle, it was the defenders who came in for the fullest praises from the coaches. Green Bay, sparked by the magnificent play of linebacker Ray Nitschke, was termed "superb" by Lombardi. Sherman called his fiery defensive unit "great."

PACKERS

blew long passes, especially Tittle's, off target.

For all the heroics of Taylor, Jerry Kramer and Hornung, Packers linebacker Ray Nitschke won the 1963 Corvette sports car presented by Sport Magazine to the outstanding player in the game.

Nitschke deflected a pass that ruined an excellent New York scoring opportunity in the first period and he recovered two fumbles, the first of which set up Taylor's touchdown and the second preceding Kramer's second field goal.

Huff said if there was a turning point to the game, it was the Giants' abortive scoring threat in the first period. Immediately after Kramer's first field goal, the Giants penetrated to the Green Bay 15-yard line on the passing of Tittle and the ball-carrying of Alex Webster and Phil King.

Then Nitschke and his linebacking partner, Dan Currie, moved in. Nitschke deflected a Tittle pass and Currie intercepted the ball and ran it out to the Packers' 40.

Nitschke's recovery of a fumble by King on the Giants' 28 in the second period opened the door for Green Bay's only touchdown. Hornung hit Boyd Dowler with a 21-yeard pass on the next play and immediately afterward Taylor crashed through a gaping hole in the middle of the line to give Green Bay a 10-0 halftime lead.

The Packers brought home a record $5,888.57 apiece as their share of the game's receipts.

"Being champ feels great," said defensive halfback Jess Whittenton.

"Now we can go home and watch television and watch the 'best team' playoff down in Florida," he quipped referring to the playoff between the NFL's second place teams, Detroit and Pittsburgh, next month in Florida. Detroit was the only team to beat Green Bay during the season.

NOSIEST CROWD

The airport hosted a "noisiest crowd in the world," in an impromptu celebration that veteran newsmen called much bigger than last year when the team won the championship playing on its own field.

"It's the noisiest thing we've ever had," said one sportswriter.

Civil defense workers were called out to help the entire county police force and auxiliary police handle traffic. Several minor accidents were reported on roads leading to the field even before the Packers' chartered flight touched down two hours late.

Packer fans showed what they thought of New York linebacker Sam Huff, who said after the game, "hey (the Packers) are a good team, but they can be beaten."

Marinites In All-Star Win

With four Billings-Hutchison Builders of Marin playing key roles, the Alameda Winter League All-Stars clobbered the stars from the San Francisco Triple A League 13-2 yesterday.

Starting hurler Jerry Walters continued his masterful pitching as he received the win while pitching the first three innings of the contest. Walters, property of the Cleveland Indians, pitched no-hit, no-run ball for his stint and struck out six of the San Francisco batters. Besides being credited with the victory, Walters earned the outstanding individual performance honor.

Walters' battery mate, Builder catcher Larry Smoot, broke the game wide open in the first inning with a three-run triple. The lead was never headed.

Builder infielders Ron Blum and Ron Cole each contributed key hits and defensive gems. Next Sunday the Builders of Marin will resume league play in the Alameda Winter League with a home game at San Anselmo's Municipal Park.

Both Teams Proud After NFL Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a game both teams were proud of—the losers as well as the winners—a close, savagely-fought game.

"They couldn't have been better," said Coach Vince Lombardi of his Green Bay Packers, who had just won their second straight National Football League championship yesterday with a 16-7 triumph over the New York Giants.

"They vindicated themselves. There was no humiliation today," was losing Coach Allie Sherman's firmly-intoned comment on his club, reflecting on the crushing 37-0 defeat the Giants suffered at Green Bay in last year's title playoff.

Then Sherman went on to give what a capsule sum-up of the punishing battle, played in icy winds on Yankee Stadium's frozen turf:

". . . We were so close at times. But we lost out because we didn't finish up and they did."

Both sides were supremely prepared for this big one. They were ready physically and mentally — and each side had intense desire, for its own special reason.

"We wanted it real bad," said the Giants' masterful, 36-year-old quarterback, Y. A. Tittle. And Sherman explained why:

Both teams came out of the match with a healthy respect for the opposition, especially the winners for the losers.

Paul Hornung, a very weary halfback, said simply that he'd "never played in a tougher game."

After what was basically a bitter defensive struggle, it was the defenders who came in for the fullest praises from the coaches. Green Bay, sparked by the magnificent play of linebacker Ray Nitschke, was termed "superb" by Lombardi. Sherman called his fiery defensive unit "great."

PACKERS

blew long passes, especially Tittle's, off target.

For all the heroics of Taylor, Jerry Kramer and Hornung, Packers linebacker Ray Nitschke won the 1963 Corvette sports car presented by Sport Magazine to the outstanding player in the game.

Nitschke deflected a pass that ruined an excellent New York scoring opportunity in the first period and he recovered two fumbles, the first of which set up Taylor's touchdown and the second preceding Kramer's second field goal.

Huff said if there was a turning point to the game, it was the Giants' abortive scoring threat in the first period. Immediately after Kramer's first field goal, the Giants penetrated to the Green Bay 15-yard line on the passing of Tittle and the ball-carrying of Alex Webster and Phil King.

Then Nitschke and his linebacking partner, Dan Currie, moved in. Nitschke deflected a Tittle pass and Currie intercepted the ball and ran it out to the Packers' 40.

Nitschke's recovery of a fumble by King on the Giants' 28 in the second period opened the door for Green Bay's only touchdown. Hornung hit Boyd Dowler with a 21-yeard pass on the next play and immediately afterward Taylor crashed through a gaping hole in the middle of the line to give Green Bay a 10-0 halftime lead.

Dean Of House Gives His Views On Coming Congress

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When congress convenes next Jan. 9, a lot of news will be made — as usual — by Rep. Carl Vinson, who has been around the capitol longer than any other member. His reflections on events past, present and future were given recently in an interview with the chief of the UPI House staff, who has known Vinson intimately for years.)

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Carl Vinson (D.-Ga.), 79 years old, dean of the House, and one of the most powerful figures in congress, leaned back in a chair in his office and discussed the world:

He lauded President John F. Kennedy's handling of the Cuban crisis.

He predicted that much of the president's legislative program will be approved by the 88th congress.

He said in the interview, however, that Kennedy may have made a mistake in letting manned bomber production run out in favor of missiles and in cancelling plans for the Skybolt air-to-ground missile.

Besides being chairman and benevolent despot of the weighty armed services committee, Vinson is leader of the moderate southern bloc in the house. As such he helped pull some of Kennedy's chestnuts out of the fire in the last congress, and administration forces are counting on him for vital support in the next one.

For a price, they will probably get it. The price, as close observers can already see, likely will include appointment of Rep. Phil M. Landrum, another Georgian, to a vacancy on the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

This is a crucial spot which some northern house liberals would rather see filled by somebody else. From time to time Vinson may also be expected to extract other plums for his district, his state, or the South.

Vinson believes members of congress must constantly weigh local and regional interests against those of the nation and world. Sometimes he makes these choices one way and sometimes the other. Sometimes the choices are hard. He has little respect for the congressman who is reluctant to face them or who makes them all out of fear.

Many thousands of words have been written about "Uncle Carl" Vinsons's bumpkin appearance; about his Milledgeville drawl, unadulterated after almost half a century on the Washington scene; about his large nose and the low-riding glasses thereon; about the tobacco he chews and the spittoon he hits with not quite enough accuracy.

Now, preparing to start his 25th two-year term in the house, he pulled off his glasses, leaned back in his chair, and discussed more serious matters with a reporter who has sat across that same scarred deck from him on hundreds of occasions over the past 15 years. "Ask your questions," he ordered. I did, and got these among other answers:

On the inevitable conflicts, especially for a southern lawmaker, between the immediate interests of his own constituents and the long-range interests of the nation:

"You've got to serve both. A member of congress must not confine his horizons to the boundary lines of his district. Sometimes you have to do something not popular in your district. When I do, I tell my people why. Some people have criticized me as too liberal. Actually, I'm a conservative. But I call myself a supporter of progressive legislation. The world doesn't stand still. The past is a guide but you've got to live in the future."

On President Kennedy:

"I have served with eight different presidents, from Wilson through Kennedy. I have known them all exceedingly well. There can be no doubt in my mind that John F. Kennedy will go down in history as one of the nation's great presidents."

About Cuba:

"I commend the superb manner in which the president and his advisers handled the Cuban situation. We have accomplished, in the main, what we set out to accomplish. The president and his advisers rose to the heights of national and international statesmanship in the way they handled the problem."

On bombers and the Skybolt:

"I try to work with the department of defense and the White House. Where I am not in agreement with them, I exercise my own judgment and make an issue, as on the RS70. I am not in complete agreement with their decision to cut off bomber production. I think we make a mistake to put all our eggs in a basket of missiles. I am greatly concerned about the recent decision on Skybolt."

On Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara:

"I still think he is the greatest defense secretary we ever had. The two outstanding statesmen of the era are President Kennedy and Defense Secretary McNamara. My association with McNamara has been very close. I often see him in my office at 7 or 7:30 a.m., so early the elevators aren't running and we both have to climb the stairs. He is not much a compromiser. But he has the responsibility. He makes the decisions, and he stands by them. He doesn't make them without studying both sides of the question."

On taxes:

"Of course everybody wants to reduce them. But we can't unless at the same time government income is increased as an indirect result of the cut, or unless spending is cut. We should not regularly run a large deficit."

About integration and what happened at Oxford, Miss.:

"Now Frank, let's don't talk about that."

About Georgia and her new "moderate" governor, Carl Sanders:

"It is a progressive administration that will be guided by a determination to serve the state. I have great hope that Sanders will bring about a new day. Georgia is going forward by leaps and bounds. The population is growing. Farms are more productive. Industry is expanding. Private capital only goes in where it feels the government is trying to serve the people and where there are fair laws fairly administered."

About the world:

"These are the most critical times in history. Nobody can tell what tomorrow may bring. We must live from day to day with the hope that eventually our efforts will lead to permanent peace. Meantime we must be ready for whatever events may develop."

About the new and fair deals and the new frontier:

"I believe in private enterprise. I passed a bill to get the government out of the synthetic rubber business. I don't believe the government should be in business except where necessary. I voted for the bill that created TVA. But recently I led a successful fight to bar its expansion into areas already well served by private utilities. These progressive programs of Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy are not socialistic. They are just making democracy work. I expect that a great deal of Kennedy's program will go through the congress."

About his own long career:

"At the end of my present term (in the congress that convenes Jan. 9) I will have served 50 years and one month. I was elected during the horse and buggy days. We are now in the atomic age. I wanted to come to congress because I felt I could serve my district and state and the nation. Once I got here I made up my mind to stay as long as my services were satisfactory to my people. In looking back, I think my services have been satisfactory to my people."

On his accomplishments:

"I've put a federal post office in every one of the 16 county seats in my district. And we will start work in January on a new one in Macon that will cost five million dollars. I helped put a World War I army camp at Augusta. I was able to get a naval ordnance plant built at Macon during World War II. I played a major role in location of Warner Robins Air Force base in Houston County. That's not in my district but is just over the line. There was not any suitable terrain in my district.

"From the national standpoint, one of my most significant accomplishments was pushing through legislation to build a two-ocean navy. I knew all the signs pointed to the second world war. I was determined we could not be deficient in the necessary equipment."

On his legendary role as absolute boss of the powerful Armed Services Committee:

"It is true I'm often criticized for being crusty, domineering, ruling with an iron hand."

Would he care to deny any or all parts of the charge? He only grinned. Carl Vinson has never been known as a liar.

1963 Legislature: What's In Store?

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
(First in a Series)

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California Legislature convenes at high noon a week from today to launch Gov. Edmund G. Brown into his second four-year term and begin 120 days of lawmaking.

On the surface, everything looks rosy for a Democratic administration backed by a Democratic legislature. But uncertainty marks the probable course of the 1963 general session.

The reason is clear: the legislature will open for business with the largest class of freshmen in recent history. The 40 newcomers will remain an unknown quantity until voting time rolls around in the two big chambers.

A questionnaire to all newly-elected members asked their views on leading issues. Only 15 replied, hardly enough for any pattern. The others preferred to wait-and-see.

Of the 80 assemblymen, 33 will be novices and a 34th will be returning after a lapse of many years.

You won't need a guide to tell one senator from another because only six will be new—four of them graduates from the Assembly. But altogether it adds up to a drastic turnover.

It's going to take us three months to find out where members stand and how they shape up," one old hand remarked.

There'll be plenty of time, at least. While the law limits a general session to 120 working days, it doesn't count Saturdays and Sundays. And that stretches adjournment day to June 22.

Governor Brown will take his oath of office on opening day, then step up to the rostrum of the Assembly to deliver a message outlining his 1963 program. An inaugural ball will be held that night in the cavernous Sacramento Memorial Auditorium.

Democrats will control both houses—the Assembly, 52 to 28; the Senate, 27 to 13. At the start of the 1961 session, the party lineup was: Assembly, 47 Democrats, 33 Republicans; Senate, 30 Democrats, 10 Republicans.

Little change is anticipated in legislative leadership. Only one contest has shaped up and that's for Assembly minority leader to replace outgoing Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell (R-Los Angeles).

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles) is unopposed. No challenge has appeared against continuing Carlos Bee (D-Hayward) as speaker pro tem, and Jerome Waldie (D-Antioch) as majority leader.

Charles Conrad (R-Sherman Oaks) is favored to take over the Assembly minority leadership, but he faces a possible showdown with Robert T. Monagan (R-Tracy). There's a good chance that Don Mulford (R-Piedmont) will become Assembly Republican Caucus chairman.

Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno) is certain to stay on as Senate president pro tem and chairman of the Rules Committee, with John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) as Republican leader. Burns as majority leader.

The Assembly plans briefing sessions for its freshmen next weekend. The skull practice will feature basics—how bills are introduced, how they're processed parliamentary rules and the like.

This will be followed by an unusual new program. Beginning Jan. 9, freshman members will be offered a rundown on the operations of state government by officials from each department. These sessions will take three to five weeks.

Women's Fine Hand Stirs Year 1962

Concerned About Peace, Space, Health

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

Women worried about the same old things in 1962: cost of living, dieting, getting a man—or if they had one, keeping him—their children's futures.

They added some new tensions too.

At the supermarket they collected trading stamps with philatelistic fervor. At the beauty shop they insisted on a bouffant hairdo, often succumbed to the practical blandishments of a wig.

Often as not they settled for rabbit by another name, or perhaps mink, but in their dramatic little hearts they longed for a leopard skin coat like Queen Elizabeth or Elizabeth Taylor or Jackie Kennedy were photographed in.

For that matter, a good many longed for just about anything the First Lady wore — from Capri pants to wraparound sunglasses to rajah coats.

THE SERIOUS-MINDED sometimes scorned fashion and found their outlet in picketing for peace. Others argued earnestly at Congressional hearings that women should be sent into space.

Mothers were besieged from all sides. An eminent pediatrician insisted tests showed babies thrived on unheated milk just out of the refrigerator, a new fangled theory many a mother vowed to have nothing to do with.

Having weathered many another fad, mothers of teenagers faced the newest cheap kick: glue sniffing. And the Twist, in spite of detractors, was still popular at year's end.

IF THERE WAS UNANIMITY on anything, it was that Dr. Frances Kelsey was the heroine of the year. She was the U.S. Food and Drug Administration medical officer who stubbornly held out for 14 months against impossible odds to bar thalidomide from the American market. The sleeping pill later was blamed for the deformity of thousands of babies in Europe.

Dr. Kelsey was the undisputed year's heroine, but actress Elizabeth Taylor was unrivaled in the role of siren. Her carryings-on with her leading man Richard Burton during the interminable filming of "Cleopatra" in Rome was clucked over and avidly followed by almost everybody, from housewife to cab driver. The actors' respective spouses reaped the sympathy.

NEWSMAKER OF THE YEAR — Mrs. John Kennedy chats with the Maharaja of Patiala at reception in residence of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru during her visit to India.

FOR CONSISTENTLY POPULAR interest though, Mrs. John F. Kennedy won hands down. Her trips to India and Italy were given as devoted reportage as if they were summit meetings. When she rode to the hounds, took a turn on a surfboard or appeared with a new coiffure, everybody discussed it. She became a television personality to reckon with after she conducted a televised tour of the White House she had refurbished. No trivia escaped attention. When Leonard Bernstein, the New York Philharmonic conductor, gave her a chaste peck on the cheek at the opening of Philharmonic Hall the question of the social kiss became a topic of the day.

OCCASIONALLY OTHER Kennedys got attention. Sister-in-law Ethel won many a heart in her global trip with husband, Bob. Lovely Joan Kennedy gained the spotlight when Ted won the senatorial election in November.

On the international scene, Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, prime minister of Ceylon, put down a palace revolution staged by mere men.

And the United States got another lady ambassador: Mrs. Eugene Anderson, to Bulgaria. Ambassador Frances Willis was appointed in 1961 to Ceylon, where she copes with the formidable Mrs. Bandaranaike.

IN THE WORLD of women there was tragedy, too.

The world lost its First Lady when Eleanor Roosevelt died at the age of 78. The Dutch lost Princess Wilhelmina, 82, their queen for 58 years.

Marilyn Monroe died at 36 from an overdose of sleeping pills and the movies lost its sex symbol.

Other vital statistics include: Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, after 32 years of marriage to the New York governor; and some movie colony ruptures—Lana Turner, Rosemary Clooney, Janet Leigh, Dinah Shore.

PRINCE JUAN CARLOS of Spain, 24, and Princess Sophie of Greece, 23, honeymooned in this country.

Zsa Zsa Gabor took her fourth husband, Herbert Loeb Hutner, a Manhattan investor she met at a charity ball.

Two autumn alliances: The Sparrow, French chanteuse Edith Piaf, 47, and Theo Sarapo, a Greek ex-hairdresser, 23; Lotte Lenya, 64, widow of composer Kurt Weill, and Russell Detwiler, 37-year-old American impressionist painter.

THE YEAR'S OUTSTANDING woman authors were probably Katherine Anne Porter for her first novel "Ship of Fools," and Rachel Carson for her controversial "Silent Spring," an attack on irresponsible use of pesticides.

Playwright Lillian Hellman and painter Georgia O'Keeffe were elected members of the America Academy of Arts and Letters—making now 6 women compared with 42 men.

IN THE THEATER Margaret Leighton won the chief actress awards, and on television Lucille Ball was undoubtedly the outstanding woman—both for her comeback in a half-hour comedy series, and for becoming president of the Desilu Productions.

Here Are New Year's Resolutions That Parents Should Plan To Keep

Have you made New Year's resolutions yet? This is the day and I have some suggestions. Will you raise your right hand and repeat after me? "I do solemnly promise I will not use these phrases with my children during 1963, for I know they hate them as much as I hated them when I was young."

"When I was your age I had a job, and paid my own way." (Or I did something else impossible for children nowadays.)

"You are too young to understand."

"If I only had the opportunities you're throwing away!"

"Children today don't know the meaning of hard work." (Or hard study, or hard anything else.)

"Mama or Daddy knows best, and there's nothing more to say about it."

"You couldn't be in love at your age!"

"I work my fingers to the bone for you, you ungrateful child!"

"Just wait until you have children, then you'll appreciate what I'm doing for you."

"My, how fast you're growing. You're a regular little man."

"Stop looking into that mirror. Are you glued to it?"

"The music you enjoy is barbaric, degenerate, moronic, and so are your dances!"

"The world is going to the dogs, and you are leading the way!"

"That's just puppy love!"

I'm sure you get the idea. Go ahead and add your own phrases to the list. Phrases, I mean, which you've worn out by repetition. Avoid them in 1963, and you'll have a happier home. Use other words when the ideas are to be conveyed. Good luck!

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "Do Boards of Education have the right to expel pupils? My son has had many fights with other boys. He sometimes swears at teachers. The president of the board has warned me that if he does this again he'll be kicked out. Is this possible?"—Mrs. B.S.

(A) Yes, it is. School boards can expel any student who disrupts classes, injures other pupils, or is rude or disobedient. The laws are quite explicit.

Bias Fold At The Waistline Is Attractive Dress Finish

By EUNICE FARMER

"I have seen dresses with a bias fold at the waistline instead of a belt. How is this attached and why is this used instead of a belt?"—Mrs. C.E.F.

Dear Mrs. C.E.F.:

This is an attractive way to finish the waistline seam of a dressy type dress. There are three ways the bias fold can be applied. First, make a finished bias tube about ½" wide (when finished) and slip-stitch to the waistline seam.

Second, fold a strip of bias fabric in half (right sides out) and machine stitch about ½" from the fold. Next, machine stitch this bias fold to the dress. Fold the "folded edge" down over the cut edges and slip-stitch lightly in place. Third, cover a cord with bias and insert this between bodice and skirt to form a cording at the waistline.

Mrs. Sue B. says:

"I have too many good woolen blankets since moving to California. I have made my little girl coats and jackets from them, very successful, too!"

"My question is about the grain of materials. I have had materials that I think would look better if cut across the grain rather than up and down. I have some silk tweed and the main thread runs across the material similar to shantung. I would like to have this prominent thread run up and down rather than across the garment. Would this material hang badly if I did this?"—Mrs. E.H.W.

Dear Mrs. E.H.W.:

Most sewing authorities would agree that a garment should be cut with the lengthwise grain, but "what's a rule if it can't have exceptions?" I would suggest you under-line any part of the garment that is cut on the cross grain to prevent streaching and to maintain the shape.

This week's tailor trix winner—Mrs. Nettie Kellow of Newark Valley, New York—has the following suggestion: When making a dress or blouse with front closings, make buttonholes on both sides. Sew your buttons on a strip of grosgrain ribbon. The strip is easy to remove for dry cleaning or to change color schemes and adds a novelty touch to children's clothes.

"I have a problem I hope you can help me with. I need a solution for getting rust stains from fabric, please let me know. Also, I have had many requests for help in removing carbon dots made from a tracing wheel.—Eunice F.

Mrs. N. says:

When slipping dresses over your head constantly for fittings, keep your hair-do in place by covering your head with a large scarf of silk, nylon or chiffon. Tie the two ends around your neck, works like "Magic." Models use this for their many quick changes, I found it works for me so why not try it?

Please send your sewing tips to Sew Simple. You may be the winner of a tailor trix pressing board. It's fun to share helpful sewing hints with others.

Will Compact People Have The Advantage

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

Compact people may have a distinct advantage in an overcrowded world of tomorrow, the way little cars do today in congested traffic.

Moreover, if the prophesied population explosion were to produce smaller-size humans the future world would at least benefit from the useful parts—the brains, hands and feet without wasting too much space on the body.

Miami botanist Julia Morton doesn't expect anyone to take her seriously when she expounds these theories. Still, the famed authority on tropical plant life admits, "Way down deep I'm not being facetious."

At her University of Miami laboratories and in her jungle-like Morton Collectianae gardens, the snow-haired woman has scientifically influenced hundreds of generations of plant life, but she is well aware that controlling human genetics is not as simple.

FOR SEVERAL hundred years children would have to give up milk after babyhood, be schooled in the growth-stunting mountainous altitudes and in adulthood carefully fall in love with somebody they could look down to.

Selling the sawed-off image would take an ingenius public relations job, but the resulting petite progeny would be worth it,-pint-sized (5 feet 100 pounds) Mrs. Morton believes.

"Height is glorified by tall models and show girls, but being tall isn't any fun. Ask one."

Dr. Paul Mangelsdorf, author of "Standing Room Only," a book about population explosion, agrees with her, she says, that overdoses of calcium have resulted in big-boned progeny.

"The only thing that has kept us from developing into a race of ungainly giants is that tall girls have a hard time finding husbands and often end up marrying short men. Tall men almost always marry shorter girls."

EXCESSIVELY TALL people usually have weak constitutions, she says. Being top heavy, they are prone to back strain and ruptured spinal discs. Clothes large enough and furniture at a comfortable scale are merely a few of their problems.

Glory on a basketball court, the advantage at parades, and an ability to reach top shelves are minor in comparison to delights to being small, the botanist insists.

"Short men are usually dynamos of energy because they feel better. Their hearts have less work and their organs are in a better position to function properly. Because of lower centers of gravity they have better balance and more vibrant personalities.

"Short people can be well-clothed with less material. Think of the saving of mink in fur coats," she joshes. Then she's serious again.

"DURING THE World War experts saw the need for training bomber personnel of small stature to save weight. How much more important that is in space capsules. Send up two 100-pound men rather than one 200-pound individual and you have two heads for decisions, for alternate dozing, and making observations, and four hands to manipulate controls."

Mrs. Morton and her botanist husband, Kendal Morton, are pioneers in poisonous plant study and tropical plant calssification. Currently they are cooperating with British scientists in producing a plant leaf paste with enough protein to eliminate the need for meat. They expect that someday the substitute food will replace the need for cattle altogether.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Trying To Keep Control Of A Hand Draw Two Rounds

When you're trying to keep control of a hand you must usually draw exactly two rounds of trumps.

It isn't always necessary to win those two tricks; you can draw a round of trumps on a trick won by an opponent.

When Harry Fishbein, famous New York expert, played this hand some years ago he flinched upon seeing the dummy. He had expected more than one king. And the trump support was pretty skimpy, too.

Concealing his tremors, Fishbein ruffed the opening diamond lead and returned a low trump. This was a key play in his campaign to draw just two rounds of trumps.

West won with the eight of hearts and led another diamond, forcing Fishbein to ruff with the nine of trumps.

Now declarer had to knock out the ace of spades, and back came a third diamond.

RUNS CLUBS

Fishbein ruffed with the 10 of hearts and drew a second round of trumps with the ace. This left only two trumps unplayed—West's king and dummy's four-spot.

Now Fishbein started on the clubs. West could ruff whenever he pleased, but dummy's low trump would then control the hand.

Dummy would make the rest of the clubs and South would eventually take a spade trick.

OTHER TRICK

West could get only his other trump trick, and the defenders took only two trumps and the ace of spades.

South loses the contract if he begins the trumps by cashing the ace and then leading a

East wins and returns a diamond, making South ruff again.

When West gets in with the ace of spades he can draw a third round of trumps, and the hand blows up.

In 1940, Adolph Hitler tried to spur on his troops by saying the coming year would bring the greatest victory in Germany's history.

In 1946, President Harry Truman officially proclaimed the end of World War II.

Hopes Told For Business Pickup

By STERLING GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fears of an early-1963 recession have yielded to the expectation, in Washington at least, of a sluggish business advance that should pick up steam after mid-year.

Many government economists believe that the national output will total 575 to 580 billion dollars in the year ahead —a record, about 25 billion above 1962—and move on up to a rate around 600 billion by next New Year's.

But seldom have the prospects for Main Street and Wall Street been so vulnerable to decisions to be made elsewhere —at the opposite ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, at the White House and the Capitol.

The outlook for a moderately good, non-inflationary year, without boom or full employment, could be brightened swiftly, the economists say, if Congress gives early approval to the substantial tax cuts which President Kennedy will formally request in a few days.

After a long barrage of administration arguments for a business-stimulating tax reduction, many consumers and business managers now confidently expect it. If Congress says no, some experts believe the public letdown could have a depressing impact on spending and investment.

And Congress quite possibly may say no, because the economy looks healthy enough to many lawmakers to get along without President John F. Kennedy's costly booster shot. Congress members know that a significant tax reduction could help throw the rising 1964 federal budget out of balance by 15 billion dollars or thereabouts.

Yet the prospect of higher federal spending, deficit-financed, is the main reason why the economists are fairly sure there won't be any recession in 1963.

Outlays by all governments —federal, state and local— are expected to go up nine billion dollars next year. This is comparable to the rise of 10 billion which helped carry the country over the economic rough spots of 1962.

On the private side of the economy, most sectors are expected to do better than hold their own. They showed remarkable resiliency last year in overcoming a winter slump, a government-versus-industry battle over steel prices, a stock market collapse, a mid-summer slow down, and the Cuban crisis.

The economists predict that 1963 will see these trends in key areas of the economy:

1. High and gradually increasing consumer demand. Total personal income increased every month in the past year. For all of 1962, it reached a record at a level 20 billion dollars above the previous year. "Real" income also went up because incomes rose faster than prices. Savings were high.

2. A moderate rise in business investment. The planned outlays of industry for new machinery, plants and equipment indicate a rise of 3 to 5 per cent for such investment. Government experts think these plans may be revised upward later in the year.

3. Cautious buying for business inventories. The outlook for consumer sales is not bright enough to induce business men to change the conservative rate at which they purchased supplies and materials in 1962.

4. Strength in the building industry. The biggest industry of them all, construction, will have its second record year in a row. Outlays on building will total about 63.3 billion dollars, it is estimated officially. This would be 2.1 billion dollars above 1962 and six billion over 1961.

5. Uncertainty in foreign trade and payments. The growth of European economies, far more rapid than that of the United States in recent years, is slowing down. This could choke off the continued improvement in American export sales.

Summing up, the economists see no downturn in any of the major segments of the economy or any very dramatic upswing. For business men and consumers, this implies:

Little if any improvement in unemployment. The foreseeable business expansion should just about offset the growth of the labor force, leaving the jobless somewhere near the 5.5 per cent level of 1962.

Some rise in profits, but not enough to bring cheers from corporate management or stock holders.

Stable living costs. The consumer price increase in 1962 was less than 1 per cent. With industry continuing to operate well below capacity, most economists expect the living cost rise in 1963 to be even smaller.

A Dream Car To End All Dream Cars

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The automobile status symbol to end all status symbols has made its entrance on the American scene —but anybody who wants to be the first in his block to own one had better think twice.

At $1,000 down and $100 a month you could pay this one off in about 124 years.

It's the "DiDia 150," or "Bobby Darin Dream Car," depending which name you prefer. Owner and builder Andy DiDia, a Detroit clothing designer, doesn't care; it's his car, but singer Darin is a friend of his.

The Darin-DiDia rolling palace showed up here as the star of the third annual Rod and Custom Show, put on by the Washington (Pa.) Timing Assn.

With some 125 cars, the quick and the costly, marshaled in Pittsburgh's Civic Auditorium, there was plenty of competition, but the DiDia 150 grabbed attention from the outset with its spinnaker-size tailfins and its dazzling price: $150,000.

Owner DiDia explains that labor alone, seven years of it, accounted for $93,647.29. A very precise man, and it shows in the car he designed.

Surprisingly, it is not really flashy. Clothing designer DiDia tailored the body to relatively simple lines in a solid, russet-color finish that is fairly subdued, for a mixture of paint and diamond dust.

The real innovations are functional: thermostatically controlled air conditioning, totally concealed headlights, individual cigarette lighters, ashtrays and radio speakers for each of the four bucket seats, windshield wipers that start themselves when it rains . . . All it lacks is an electronic brain to drive it, but what can you expect for only $150,000?

A price tag like that probably puts Bill Cushenbery's "Silhouette" in the medium-price range, but Cushenbery doesn't even try to estimate the value of his futuristic roadster.

There may be faster cars than the Silhouette—Cushenbery estimates it will make at least 145 miles an hour — but no car could look faster. From a smooth, chisel-edge nose, the silhouette of the Silhouette slopes gently upward, slides gracefully over a clear plexiglass bubble and tapers off to an angular trunk just big enough for an overnight bag and some polishing cloths.

Cushenbery, a 29-year-old custom car specialist from Monterey, Calif., was also represented by his first major entry in the custom field, "El Matador," a rebuilt 1940 Ford, as red as a hot pepper.

With all the red in the show, the "Chrome Coffin" presented by Binieki Brothers of Detroit, was almost a relief. The driver is incarcerated in a sawed-off 1927 Model T of a funereal green and gold hue. Front and rear, the motor, tubular chassis, couplings and braces project like a skeleton, covered only by chrome plating.

Others in the show ranged from a 1932 convertible Lincoln limousine that could have carried Lindbergh through a Wall Street ticker-tape parade, to the latest stock and special drag-racers.

This whole armada of cars—give or take a few—hit the road in Fort Worth, heading into 22 appearances organized by Detroit's Promotions Inc. throughout the country, with Philadelphia, Providence, R. I., New York and San Antonio early on the agenda.

If the tour accomplishes nothing else, it may at least give the public its first look at a flying saucer and a chance to argue over the right to call this thing an automobile at all.

Ed Roth of Maywood, Calif., dreamed it up and calls it the "Ro-Tar." In a way, Roth has brought new glory to the only part of a car still neglected by most designer—the fan. But the Ro-Tar's twin fans, powered by two motorcycle engines and mounted horizontally inside circular ducts, are not there to cool anything. Their purpose is to blow the 750-pound car right off the paving and into the air, about six inches off the ground.

According to Roth, "There is a remote possibility that this will be the first car to reach the moon."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Blood Transfusions Life Savers -But Practice Can Be Overdone

VAN DELLEN

Blood transfusions are life saving procedures but never were intended for routine use. There are disadvanatges and risks to the use of blood and a transfusion should not be given unless the need is worth the risk of developing a reaction.

The procedure has become so popular, it is being used on persons who are likely to get well without it. Dr. Max M. Simon of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., told the International College of Surgeons that the annual death rate from blood transfusions exceeds that for appendicitis, intestinal obstruction, and other common surgical conditions. Dr. Simon says the availability and ease of administration apparently have led to overuse of blood transfusions.

WE ARE NOT trying to discourage the use of blood or blood substitutes when needed. Most of the overuse centers about the necessity of a single transfusion for a person whose blood pressure has dropped after a major operation. We know that if one transfusion is sufficient to restore and maintain normal blood pressure, a relatively safe drug, such as dextran, would have served equally well.

The use of blood may be more dramatic but a single pint is packed with hazards. Unless there is great urgency, it is safer to try other measures first.

THERE ALWAYS is a possibility of mismatched blood because humans, even the most skilled, can make mistakes. Reactions occur also to those who do not know they are allergic to substances in blood or from impurities in the bottles and tubing. Serum hepatitis always is a possibility when pooled blood is used: one of the donors may have had an unrecognized bout of viral hepatitis. The addition of blood to the circulation may overwork the heart, leading to a dropsical condition.

Such reactions are not common but must be weighed against the condition of the sick individual. There is no doubt about the value of whole blood, plasma, or a suspension of red cells when life is at stake in such conditions as shock, severe hemorrhage, certain forms of anemia, and to get a debilitated person in shape for much needed surgery.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

"You may be excused," said the judge. "Go, and don't stop along the way."

Johnny Cash To Sing At Quentin

Johnny Cash, known as "America's Most Wanted Singin' Storyteller," will highlight the New Year's Day show for San Quentin inmates, which starts at 10 a.m. and lasts five hours.

It will be Cash's third appearance at the prison's annual show, called the "Show of Stars."

Opening the show, as he has done for many years, will be Galliano Daneluz of the San Francisco Opera Assn., who will sing the National Anthem. He will be followed by a large number of song, dance and music acts. Appearing with Cash will be the Tennessee Three and June Carter, who plays the banjo, guitar and harp.

Schooling For Young Scientists

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the space age providing an ever-increasing need for more scientists, industry has come up with an experimental program designed to stimulate student interest in scientific careers.

At four public schools here students are attending lectures by space scientists and watching specially developed demonstration devices at sessions of the year-long program inaugurated by the New York City School Board and the Radio Corp. of America.

During the current school year more than 50 lectures on subjects related primarily to the space age will be presented in the classrooms by RCA scientists. If the idea works, it is the hope of the sponsors that other industries in other communities across the country will start similar programs.

Boys Camp Will Be Named For Barkley

FRANKFORT, KY. (UPI) — Kentucky's boys camp near Gilbertsville will be renamed in honor of the late Vice President Alben W. Barkley, a native of Paducah.

It has been operated since 1956 as an institution for delinquent boys.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Your Number's Up As U.S. Taxpayer

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

You have a taxpayer account number.

It is your Social Security number or, if you are an employer, it is your employer's number which you use in reporting withholding and social security taxes for your employees.

P. J. Wikel

You must use this number on every tax return or other document you file with the Internal Revenue Service or the Social Security Service for the year 1962 and later.

Everyone who pays you interest or dividends in excess of $10.00 or who pays you salaries, wages, fees, commissions, rent, alimony or any other taxable income in excess of $600 is required to ask you for your number and to use it in reporting the amounts paid to you.

If they fail to use this number or to request it from you and you fail to supply this number when asked, you or they may be fined $5 for each such failure.

If you do not now have a taxpayer account number or Social Security number, which is the same thing, you are not required to use it for the year 1962.

But, if the Internal Revenue Service asks you to secure a number, you must do so and use it.

You will be required to apply for a number and use it for years after 1962.

You apply for the number on Form SS-5, Application for Social Security Account Number, or on Form 3227, Application for Taxpayer Account Number.

These forms can be obtained at any office of the Internal Revenue Service or at any District Office of the Social Security Administration.

If you do not now have a number, you should get an application and apply for a number during 1963 so that you will have it to use for 1963 forms.

If you are a wife with no income and you file a joint return with your husband, then you do not need a number.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

By HARRY CRAFT

Builders, Economists Looking Forward To Good Year In 1963

Builders and economists look forward to next year's housing starts as at least equalling those of 1962. In Marin, some hope for more, based on the crescendo of population growth.

Chances are, if you decide to buy a new home in 1963, you will get a better model than its counterpart of a few years ago.

The price most certainly will be higher. The median selling price of a one-family home in Marin hae probably gone upward from $3,000 in the past five years, and there's evidence consumers will be willing to spend more in keeping with increases in their net incomes.

Houses haven't changed as much from year to year as automobiles, but there has been a steady improvement. Many advances have been made doing the same thing, only better. Not always is there enough change in outward appearance to be immediately apparent to the buyer. A number of the improvements are hidden behind walls or underground, or in the substitution of new materials which have proved to be more durable.

AND THESE in themselves are not necessarily more costly. Increased property values and labor costs are responsible for most higher prices.

For that reason, reflects E. Douglas Roberts, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, it is extremely difficult to make an accurate cost comparison of today's home and one like it built several years ago. The nearest thing to it would still be different.

Such seemingly small things as plastic liners for exterior walls, better adhesives for ceramic tile, improved paints, better designed plumbing and heating systems, insulation and aluminum window framings—no major cost increases evident here but they serve to make home upkeep less expensive and home living more comfortable.

However, new designing is becoming a contributing factor. Modern concepts call more for functional room arrangement to reduce interior traffic through main living areas by youngsters. Open floor plans creating the feeling of spaciousness have caught the eye of the home buyer.

And an awareness of these changes is reflected in the convenience standards set up by the buyers themselves. They are no longer satisfied with the same look in a new home but are demanding the "options"—even if they have to pay extra for them.

ACCORDING TO FIGURES cumulated by Title Insurance and Trust Co., the number of deeds recorded in Marin County from January through November, 1962, was 12.6 per cent higher than for the same 11-month period of 1961.

Real estate loans for the corresponding periods increased 14 per cent in number, 26 per cent in dollar volume.

Both deeds and loans for the 11 months of 1962 exceeded those of the entire year of 1961.

More deeds were recorded in Sonoma County, but fewer real estate loans. Percentage increases of both in Marin were higher than in Sonoma.

Business Zoning Asked On Parcels In West Marin

Three requests for limited roadside business zoning in West Marin have been scheduled for hearing next Monday by the Marin County Planning Commission, which will meet at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center.

Two proceedings have been filed by Marguerite B. Copp for properties on Point Reyes - Inverness Road about a mile south of Inverness. A parcel on the west side is 3.3 acres and another on the east of the road is 6.5 acres. The petitions are items 9 and 10 on the planning agenda.

Another petition filed by Max Weiss for a small parcel at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Platform Bridge Road near Tocaloma is item 8 on the agenda.

14% Are From Marin

Fourteen per cent of the students at Sonoma State College come from Marin County, according to announcement of Alvin Marks, dean of students. This is the largest outside-Sonoma group, but half the full-time freshman and sopohomore students are from out of Sonoma County, Marks said.
